Truman Asks Stand Against Aggression

Promises Budget Balance In 1947

President Asserts United States Must Keep Own Economy Strong By Lowering Prices; Opposes Tax Cuts Now

By Ernest B. Vaccaro

WASHINGTON, April 5. — (AP) — President Truman declared tonight the United States "must take a positive stand" against aggression in all its forms and must keep its own economy strong by lowering prices.

In the foreign field, he proclaimed that "we must" aid "those peoples whose freedoms are endangered by foreign pressures." And he specified aggression "secretly by infiltration" as well as openly by armed force.

He also said United States must "stand guard" before the United Nations and, "when necessary, supplement its activities."

At home, he termed the Republican economy drive in Congress "an invitation to disaster," rallied the Democrats against immediate tax cuts and economies he called "false," and earnestly besought lower prices.

Many prices now, he asserted are "unnecessarily high" and "must be brought down if our entire economy is not to suffer." He urged citizens not to go "whole hog for profits."

For his own part, the chief executive pledged "stringent economy" in government and announced definitely that receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30 will be in balance, and then some—something for which he previously had expressed only a hope.

The president addressed a Jefferson day dinner—his first speech under Democratic party auspices since

TRUMAN HIGHLIGHTS

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP)—Key quotations from the Jefferson day address of President Truman:

We, like Jefferson, have witnessed atrocious violations of the rights of nations. * * * We, too have declared our protest. We must make that protest effective by aiding those peoples whose freedoms are endangered by foreign pressures.

We know how the fire starts. We have seen it before—aggression by the strong against the weak, openly by the use of armed force and secretly by infiltration.

Our responsibility is to stand guard before the edifice of lasting peace which, after so long a time, is at last being built. That edifice is the United Nations.

In supporting the United Nations we must, when necessary, supplement its activities. By aiding free nations to maintain their freedom we strengthen the United Nations in the performance of its functions.

The foreign policy of this country transcends in importance any other question confronting us. It would be fatal if it were to become the subject of narrow political considerations.

You may recall hearing dire predictions * * * that the United States was heading into an economic crack-up

BOND BIDS TO BE OPENED TUESDAY

Public Invited By Council To Attend Session; Expect Many Proposals

"The presence and advice of all interested citizens will be appreciated," Mayor H. H. Benoit and Commissioners C. R. Tidwell and W. D. H. Rodriguez said in a public notice announcing the opening of bids at 10 a. m. next Tuesday on two municipal bond issues totaling $2,158,000.

The bonds, $750,000 for reconstruction and expansion of the city's sewerage system and $1,408,000 for drainage, were authorized by the taxpayers of Monroe at a special election January 28, in which they endorsed the improvement projects by a vote of 16 to 1.

Sitting with the commission council in an advisory capacity when the bids are opened and studied will be Fred F. Millsaps, president of the Ouachita National bank, and Travis Oliver, president of the Central Bank & Trust company. The two local institutions do not buy long-term bonds, as are the sewerage and drainage issues, which are redeemable over a period of 25 years.

City Treasurer P. A. Poag yesterday said he had received inquiries from more than 50 bonding houses in New Orleans, New York, Chicago, Nashville and Atlanta and other cities which are expected to send representatives here to enter proposals.

FOUR KILLED IN OKLAHOMA STORM

WISTER, Okla., April 5. —(AP)— An early morning wind storm in the Glendale community ripped the frame home of George Vaughn into kindling wood, killing four members of the family.

The Red Cross listed the dead as George and Nance Vaughn, husband and wife, his brother, Andrew Vaughn, and Mrs. Jewell Overholt, daughter of Vaughn. No ages were given.

Shaken up were Mrs. Overholt's husband, Cecil, their eight-year-old son, Gary Harding, and Mrs. Mildred Pidecock, a friend of the Overholts, all of McAlester, Okla. They were visiting the Overholts during the Easter week-end. They are all in the Poteau Hospital.

Leflore County Undersheriff Bryan Cobler said that a number of houses in the area, which is in eastern Oklahoma near the Arkansas border, were blown down. Damage was reported heavy to livestock and other rural property.

The storm also hit nearby Gilmore but no casualties were reported.

The storm was part of a heavy wind and rain storm which struck most of Oklahoma overnight.

The Red Cross and Oklahoma highway patrol were rushing aid to the stricken area.

The storm hit Glendale, a school district with several farm homes in the vicinity, about 2 a. m. The highway patrol reported it as a cyclone.

TAX ELECTION SET ON MAY 13

Ouachita Parish To Hold Election Asking For Five Mills

May 13 was the date set by the Ouachita parish school board at their April meeting Friday for the re-voting of the millage tax for the support of parish schools. Also the millage rate was raised from 4 to 5 mills for the period of the next five years, stated George W. Welch, superintendent of parish schools. He explained that each mill of the tax on local assessed valuations will produce approximately $25,000 a year so that the five mills should bring to the treasury about $125,000.

This sum will be used to defray rising costs of teachers' salaries and other expenses that occur.

A resolution was presented to the board in which it stated that salaries paid are not commensurate with the sum appropriated by the state legislature in the 1946 session and asked that an additional $100 for the current year be paid each instructor. This was voted down when figures were shown from a state report showing payment from state funds in 1946-47 over those paid in 1945-46 in which it was shown that a total of 66.5 percent had been paid them in the period under question

ACCUSED ASSAILANT IS UNION OFFICIAL

B. A. Fisher, 32, of Amarillo, Texas, accused by a 19-year-old girl of having sought to criminally assault her after inducing her to enter his car near her home on Moon lake, near Sterlington, Friday, was charged with attempted rape in criminal district court yesterday morning and was held in parish prison in default of $2,500 bond.

Assistant District Attorney H. H. Parker said the case probably would be placed before the parish grand jury when it goes into session Monday.

Fisher was revealed yesterday to be the assistant business agent for Local No. 82 of the Boilermakers Union of Baton Rouge and it was said he had been in Sterlington frequently during the past few weeks.

Five U. S. Marines Killed In Attack By Communists

16 Others Wounded When Chinese Reds Raid Ammunition Dump

By John Roderick

TIENTSIN, China, April 5.—(AP)—Ammunition-hungry Chinese Communists killed five U. S. marines and wounded 16 today in a smartly planned raid on the marines' principal North China depot, at Hsinho, 22 miles east of Tientsin.

Most if not all of the marine deaths occurred when the raiders blew up part of the dump. The Communists left six of their own dead on the scene of the four-hour and 15-minute battle and carried away an estimated 100 wounded. No prisoners were taken on either side.

Four hundred Chinese government troops took up the pursuit northward while marine observation planes kept the retreating raiders under surveillance.

The marines themselves organized a heavily armed convoy under Col. Julian N. Frisbie, commandant of the Fifth regiment.

(This dispatch thus implied, but did not flatly state, that the marine convoy was a punitive expedition.)

A marine statement said identification of the dead Chinese left no doubt that they were Communists.

Fourteen of the wounded marines required surgery and three were critically hurt. However, the First division's surgeon, Dr. Eugene V. Jobe, expressed hope that all would recover.

Marine accounts gave this description of this bloodiest brush to date with the Communists:

Presumably goaded by a shortage of ammunition and other supplies, the Communists closed in on the five-square mile dump area shortly after midnight. The depot is lead out in a triangle, with the road northward to Peitang touching its apex.

One hundred attackers struck across

7 AGENCIES FOR GERMANY VOTED

United States, Britain And Russia Are Agreed On Creation

By Wes Gallagher

MOSCOW, April 5.—(AP)—The foreign ministers agreed tentatively tonight on establishing seven administrative agencies for Germany and adopted a timetable under which a provisional government would be created 12 months after the agencies come into being.

The ministers bogged down, however, on issues connected with the makeup of the agencies, which would administer on a national basis such matters as food, transport, communications, industry, fiance and foreign trade.

The United States, Britain and Russia were agreed upon creation of the agencies. At today's session the French said they would go along with the other three, provided these conditions were attached:

1. German agencies should be under administration of a committee made up of representatives of the German states.

2. The Saar should be excluded from authority of the agencies.

The ministers were unable to agree upon those conditions, as well as a Soviet stipulation each zone commander should have power to veto in his zone any directive from one of the agencies when he considered it in

FOUR ARE KILLED AS PLANE CRASHES

DECATURVILLE, Tenn., April 5.—(AP)—Four persons, tenatively identified as two army officers and two civilians, were killed this afternoon when an army transport plane ran into a storm and crashed on a hillside seven miles southwest of here.

Carol Avery, correspondent for the Memphis Commercial Appeal and one of the first at the scene, said the plane was a C-47 and that its log indicated it was based at Maxwell Field, Ala.

Unconfirmed reports were that the transport was en route from Bolling Field in Washington, D. C., to Memphis.

Avery said two of the dead wore army insigna of captain and colonel. One of the civilians had papers indicating he was a press correspondent from Hawaii, he added, while the other's papers listed him from Dayton, Ohio.

The two-engined plane apparently was attempting to land in a slamm clearing when it plunged into the side of a hill in the heavily wooded section near the Tennessee river, eye-witnesses reported.

The accident occurred around 2:30 p. m. (C. S. T.) during a heavy rain and wind storm.

JOYOUS EASTER IS HERE AGAIN

Throngs Expected To Attend Services; Sunrise Programs Arranged

"Christ the Lord Is Risen Today!" This epitomizes the gladsome message that will resound from all pulpits in the Twin City today. And it will have special significance as it will be the second Easter that we as a nation have observed since the close of World War II, whose crushing blows plunged humanity in mourning. This Easter, as in days past, members of the family will assemble, wherever possible, around the home fireside. New faith will be kindled as pastors will drive home in eloquent sermons the story of the death and triumphant resurrection of the King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

Early risers will assemble either in the First Methodist Church in West Monroe or at the Memorial Park Cemetery for a 6 a. m. sunrise service.

The one at the cemetery will be especially elaborate and will be non-denominational and participated in by the youth of the community. A special bus will be operated at 5:30 a. m. from the Central Savings Bank and Trust Company's corner to the cemetery to provide for those having no other means of transportation.

All churches will have special music, elaborate floral displays on altars, and sermons that will reflect the Easter season.

Grace Episcopal Church will have the Holy Eucharist at 7 a. m. with

EASTER IS CELEBRATED BY MILLIONS OF WORSHIPPERS

(By Associated Press)

With glad song, pageant and ancient ritual the nation's millions of worshippers celebrated the Easter festival today and heard anew the story of the risen Christ.

As sunrise came across the land thousands were expected at outdoor services in the large centers of population.

Over much of the nation the forecasters promised rain and an unseasonable chill to dampen feminine plumage in those stylish Easter parades.

Two hundred thousand were to hear the Easter message a the 22nd annual Holy City pageant, a replica of Jerusalem in the Foothills of Oklahoma's Wichita Mountains, near Lawton, beginning at night and continuing until dawn.

Sunrise services at the Hollywood Bowl and at Glendale, Calif., near Los Angeles, were expected to draw a total of 80,000.

There were half a dozen outdoor sunrise services scheduled in New York City, including one on the Mall in Central Park.

Massed choirs and corps of trumpeters were to bring their Easter music to Chicago's Soldier field before 50,000 at a 15th annual dawn service.

San Francisco scheduled its 25th annual sunrise observance atop 938-foot Mt. Davidson with its illuminated 103-foot cross.

At Salt Lake City the Easter Ministerial Association planned an all-religions service for the steps of the state capitol.

In Idaho the Boise Junior Chamber of Commerce arranged with prison officials to have convicts boil 1,800 eggs for an annual children's Easter egg hunt.

But the traditional egg rolling on the White House lawn in Washington was cancelled because of hunger in other lands.

KRUG REFUSES TO CLOSE ALL MINES

Rejects Request By John L. Lewis To Shut Down All But Two

MEN ALREADY EMPOWERED TO LEAVE UNSAFE MINES

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP)—Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug rejected tonight a proposal from John L. Lewis that he close all but two of the nation's seized soft coal mines pending a safety check, pointing out that the miners have authority of their own to shut down unsafe workings.

The impasse, with the federal mine boss and the head of the United Mine Workers disagreeing over where the responsibility for mine safety lies, threatened to prolong the "mourning" stoppage in the coal fields.

Krug's response, in a letter from Navy Capt. N. H. Collisson, mine administrator under the secretary's supervision, called the proposed general shutdown an "arbitrary procedure." It recalled that the secretary previously had ordered 518 mines closed as "dangerous" and said the remainder of the 2,531 pitts in government hands will reopen unless local union safety committees find "imminent danger" in them.

The secretary reminded Lewis that under the Krug-Lewis contract the local union safety committee can withdraw the men from any mine it considers "so unsafe as to present an 'imminent danger.'"

But Lewis already had directed, in the case of the 518 closed mines, that union safety committees should not sign certificates of safety to permit their reopening "as such certificates keys on my radio and received a

Jes' Ramblin'

Many pastors have a little joke that they spring quite frequently on their congregations. They state jocosely that on three days of the year they address audiences that tax their churches to capacity. These days, as all know, are Christmas, Easter and Mother's day. Today will doubtless be one of these three favored days. An acquaintance of ours, middle aged Monroe man, was aroused from his bed of repose last week one night at about ? o'clock by a pair of male visitors who got him up, rather incompletely attired, and they interrogated him as to why he was not a regular church attendant. Under their encouragement, he promised to be in attendance at church today. There are probably many more in his catagory. In contrast to this, many youth of the community will this morning journey to Memorial Park Cemetery for a Sunrise Easter service which promises to be quite unique.

In the thickest warfare of World War Two, when the continent was being deluged with bombing, the story is told that the commanding officer in England had his bombers all lined up for the night's bombing ordeal. As they were standing at attention the officer in charge asked the chaplain if he had anytning to say to the men. He responded: "Man, many of you will undoubtedly die today. But if you give up your lives right now or fortunately live on for 40 or 50 years, I want to implant this one truth in your minds, God is eternal, and you men, are immortal. Never depart from this unfailing belief."

J. C. Liner, Jr., manager of KMLB in Monroe, was pleased to receive Saturday a letter from Mrs. Henry Littlepage, former O. P. H. S. teacher, now living on a farm 20 miles from Paducah, Ky., who write him: "Just a note to tell you that I had a delightful surprise when at random I flipped the

GIRL WILL SPEND EASTER IN JAIL

SANTA ANA, Calif., April 5.—(AP)—Louise Overell, 17-year-old heiress charged with her fiance, George Gollum, with murdering her parents, faced the prospect today of spending Easter in her Orange county jail cell.

While relatives were declared to be arranging for her $50,000 bond, her attorney, Otto Jacobs, told a reporter it would not be posted today or tomorrow.

Gollum, 21, husky pre-medical student, was not admitted to bail.

Meanwhile, she was making plans to marry Gollum on her 18th birthday, April 30. The ceremony would require permission of the court, Sheriff James Musick and her guardian and uncle, Fred Jungquist.

If the young couple were to marry, lawyers observed, the state could not force either to testify against the other during their trial.

Truman Withholds Call For Seizure

President Of National Federation Of Telephone Workers Asserts Negotiations Have Turned Into Farce

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach expressed hope tonight of settling the dispute which threatens a nation-wide telephone strike Monday and appealed to union members to "keep on working" while negotiations continue.

"Anything can happen between now and Monday morning," Schwellenbach said in a statement.

STRIKE THREAT FACED BY BELL

Company Issues Statement; Fearful Of Work Stoppage

The Southern Bell Telephone company declared Saturday that it had done everything within reason to avert a telephone strike but that if union leadership persisted in its course of action and called a strike, the company would do all in its power to provide the emergency service required by the public.

The company appealed to its employees to "stay on the job and provide the service which is so vital to the people we serve."

Officials stated that management employees who report to work, recognizing the company's responsibility to render uninterrupted service, will operate the switchboards to handle emergency calls. In the interest of prompt handling of emergency calls, the public is asked to limit its calls to emergency messages only.

A statement issued by the company follows:

"A total of 42,000 Southern Bell employees are eligible for union membership. According to union statements appearing in the press, only 25,303 of these, or only 60 percent, voted on the question of whether there would be a strike—24,034 voting for a strike and 1,269 against it.

"The company deeply regrets the union's action which has put the fine people who make up the Southern Bell employee body in the grave position of disregarding the public interest in this matter. The company has appealed repeatedly to the union leadership not to endanger the public safety and welfare by calling telephone employees out on strike. They have not heeded this appeal.

"The Southern Bell company and the union, ever since the union was certified by the National Labor Relations Board in 1944, have worked out satisfactory contracts under which the non-supervisory employees have been working. The present contract under which our people now work was agreed upon only last year.

"Negotiations on a new contract have been carried on since February 17, 1947, and agreement has been

EXPORTER QUIZZED IN WOMAN'S DEATH

NEW YORK, April 5—(AP)—An exporter living in suburban Westchester county was questioned today by three Arlington, Va., detectives investigating the death of Wynona Harvey, attractive Philippine embassy secretary whose body was found in a creek across the Virginia line from Washington.

The exporter was identified by Police Chief Bernard F. McCall of Irvington, N. Y. as Andrew Gilchrist, a resident of the neighboring town of Dobbs Ferry. Gilchrist, requested to meet the detectives, speedily complied.

McCall said Gilchrist was believed by police to be an acquaintance of the girl and added that the Virginia officers had sought the business man's help in the hope he might supply some lead which would enable police to solve the puzzling death.

Miss Harvey's body was found Thursday in Arlington county. Capt. Hugh Jones of the Arlington police, one of those who came here to question Gilchrist, said there were no marks on the body.

A preliminary report listed drowning as the probable cause of death but a final verdict awaited completion of pathological tests.

Jones said correspondence was found in the 25-year-old girl's room which mentioned Gilchrist.

McCall said he asked Gilchrist to come to the Irvington police station and that the business man came immediately with his wife and offered his cooperation.

A former fiance of the girl, Theodore Buck, of Charlottesville, Va., was questioned yesterday. Authorities said he was not implicated in her death.

Buck told of being summoned to Washington by the girl, who telephoned him last Saturday. He said he talked to her twice at his hotel but returned to Charlottesville the next day.

RAYVILLE MAN IS CRITICALLY SHOT

Clarence Humphrey In Monroe Hospital; Justice Of Peace Held

Clarence Humphrey, 30, meat cutter in a Rayville grocery store, was critically shot at Rayville about 7:30 o'clock last night and was brought to Monroe and placed in Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic.

Shortly afterward Ben I. Andrews 50, justice of the peace in ward two, Richland parish, and operator of a taxicab service, surrendered to Town Marshal Robert N. Smith and was turned over to Sheriff J. Foster Jones, who placed him in the Richland parish jail to await the outcome of Humphrey's wounds.

Humphrey was said to have been shot three times with a .22 caliber pistol, one shot striking him in the temple, another in the neck and the third below the heart. It was stated he had some chance for recovery.

According to a report received by Sheriff Jones and Marshal Smith, there had been ill feeling between the men for some time and Humphrey was said to have been estranged from his wife.

The officers were told that Mrs. George Williams, mother of Humphrey's wife, had telephoned Andrews to come to her house in his taxi to take her and Mrs. Humphrey downtown to purchase groceries. When the three of them arrived in front of Bennett's grocery, Mrs. Williams got out and went into the store, leaving Andrews and Mrs. Humphrey in the taxi.

While the two were sitting in the taxi Humphrey arrived in another car and was said to have left his car and to have gone to the side of Andrews' car and to have remonstrated with Andrews for being with Mrs. Humphrey. It was reported that Andrews then left his taxi, approached Humphrey and began firing.

There were no eyewitnesses to the shooting except Mrs. Humphrey.

BLIND COUPLE ON HONEYMOON TRIP

CINCINNATI, April 5.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Owens, blind couple whose elopement to Indianapolis this week climaxed a romance through Braille correspondence, were honeymooning here today.

Owens, 41, and his 29-year-old bride, the former Miss Florence Frutchery of Columbus, O., arrived here from Indianapolis by train late last night.

The couple was accompanied by Owens' seeing-eye dog, Captain, as they stepped from the coach.

"I made my decision to marry Miss Frutchery, if she would have me, some time ago," the bridegroom said.

The newlyweds will spend "a few days" at the home of Owens' brother, Clyde. Asked if they would visit the bride's home in Columbus, Owens replied that had not been decided.

The couple disappeared last Monday and Mrs. Edna Frutchey, the bride's mother, asked police of Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis to look for her daughter.

Before boarding the train in the Indiana capital, the bridegroom announced they were married Thursday night by the Rev. Louis Bolding at the home of Owens' sister, Mrs. William Lively.

KNOWLES NAMED NAVAL UNIT HEAD

Monroe War Veteran Will Command Electronic Warfare Company Here

Lieutenant J. M. Knowles, USNR, 314 Arkansas avenue, has been named commanding officer of the electronic warfare company of the Naval Reserve now being established in Monroe, Captain Thomas J. Ryan, USN, eighth naval district director of Naval Reserve at New Orleans, announced.

Monroe is one of the first cities in Louisiana to be designated for an electronics unit, naval authorities said.

The Monroe company of five officers and 40 men will soon install a complete navy radio short wave station as a part of a planned communication network of about 500 similar stations throughout the eight-state district, Lt. Knowles said. The master control station will be located in New Orleans.

The navy's most modern radar and sonar equipment will also be available to Monroe reservists, he added.

"I will want to contact all veteran officers and men of any service as well as non-veterans between the ages of 17 to 18 1/2 and 30 to 40 who are interested in the electronics warfare reserve," Lt. Knowles said.

"We will drill regularly one night a week, on a volunteer basis," he explained. "A limited number of companies will be eligible for pay for six drills every three months. As district headquarters have instructed that this will be on a 'first come, first served basis' we are anxious to recruit our company up to full strength as soon as possible."

Lt. Knowles first joined the naval Reserve in April, 1944 at New Orleans and went on active duty at Princeton, N. J., in May of the same year.

On completion of officer training at Princeton University, Lt. Knowles attended Naval Communications School at Harvard. Overseas 13 months, he served as communications officer on the staff of Commodore C. S. Walton, USN, convoying troop transports in the late Pacific invasions. His last tour of duty before being released to inactive service in April, 1946, at New Orleans was as communication officer at Saipan, Mariannas Islands.

A graduate of Louisiana Tech in 1935 he is in civilian life a farm machinery dealer and belongs to Kiwanis. The son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Knowles Sr., 312 Arkansas avenue, Lt. Knowles and wife, Eula Turner Knowles, have two children, Saundra Lee, five, and Jack M. Jr., age two.

Lt Knowles states that the navy is willing to supply all necessary equipment for this unit provided the response is sufficient to justify the investment otherwise Monroe will be bypassed in the naval reserve post war program.

COMMANDER

Lt. Jack M. Knowles (above), United States Naval Reserve, has been named commander of an electronic warfare company of the Naval Reserve now being formed here.

PEACE OFFICERS COMING APRIL 29

Association To Meet Here First Time Since Organizing In 1928

Police officers from all sections of the state will meet in Monroe May 29, for the first three-day convention of the Louisiana Peace Officers' Association since 1941 and the first here since the association was organized in this city in 1928.

The aim of the association is to foster close cooperation among the many enforcement agencies in Louisiana, increase efficiency, raise the standard and levels of both income and working conditions of the individual officer, and through legislative programs secure insurance and disability benefits.

Two days of pistol shooting and competitive matches will be one of the highlights of the three-day meet. The Monroe, Alexandria and West Monroe police teams will demonstrate their quick-draw, hip-shooting and scoring techniques as taught by T. O. Bancroft, Monroe businessman. The F. B. I.'s Practical Pistol Course will also be demonstrated. Teams from the New Orleans police department, state police and others will have entries in the matches to compete for prizes.

Chief of Police J. D. Busby, member of the association's executive committee, stated that the Monroe meeting would be the best of all time. West Monroe's police chief, Jeff Caldwell, Sheriff Milton Coverdale, president of the Louisiana Sheriffs' Association, and Capt. Rex Insminger, state police troop commander in Monroe, are on the convention committee.

What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling

Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what indigestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach and the ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

HUGE PIPELINE WILL BE LAID

Tennessee Company Is To Double Capacity; Passes Through Parish

Huge piping has just been unloaded in West Monroe, as the contents of 11 freight cars, and will be used in laying a new pipeline to parallel the present line from Brownsville, Tex., to points in West Virginia.

The present line is made of 24-inch pipe but the new line will be made of 26-inch pipe. The piping that was being unloaded here yesterday is unusually heavy and is designed for use across Bayou D'Arbonne and its swamplands and the Ouachita river. It weighs about 136 pounds per running foot. "Dry land" pipe of the same size would weigh about 88 pounds per foot, it was stated.

The gigantic job of laying the new line and building an accompanying series of new or enlarged pumping stations will require about two years to finish and will cost millions of dollars, much of which will be spent in Ouachita parish. It was stated that when the new system is completed it will be able to carry a total of 600,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily. Its present capacity is about half that amount.

As a part of the program the capacity of the big pumping station in Ward Five near the Good Hope Baptist Church will also be approximately doubled, it was stated, adding considerably to the value of heavy industries in Ouachita parish.

Most of the gas presently being carried through the line originates near Corpus Christi, Tex. Some comes from Carthage, Tex., and a comparatively small amount comes from the Chatham field in Jackson parish.

PLANNING END OF YEAR PLAY

Fifth Little Theatre Production Tryouts Are Scheduled

The Little Theatre will begin preparation for the fifth and last production of the season when it holds readings for "You Can't Take It With You" Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the Little Theatre workshop in Neville High School. The play, which will be presented early in May, follows the highly successful production of "Uncle Harry," which closed last week, and promises to at least equal it. Kay Crandall, director, is most anxious that this closing play of the season should include as many newcomers to the local boards as possible, and urges all those who have often dreamed of appearing on the other side of the footlights, but waited for someone else to urge them in, to come out of their own accord, and read through the play with other oldtimers and newcomers. The cast is a large and diversified one, which has room and need for all types and kinds of actors.

"You Can't Take It With You" will be remembered by many who saw the movie version of the whacky Sycamore family. It had a long and brilliant run on Broadway with those two excellent oldtimers, Josephine Hull and Frank Wilcox, in leading roles.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN GIFTS APPRECIATED

"Fran" Brennan, Monroe businessman who is in charge of collections for the benefit of the Ouachita unit of the Crippled Children's Society, last night voiced the appreciation of the society for the donations in Monroe and West Monroe.

"We want to express our appreciation to the people of Monroe and West Monroe for their generous donations to the Crippled Children's Society at our booths in the Twin Cities," Brennan said. "We also are grateful to the members of the various civic clubs who so diligently worked each day to get the donations at our booths."

Brennan said the actual tabulation of the funds donated would not be determined until later this week, but that the donations at the booths, exclusive of seal sales, would amount to several hundred dollars.

TWO CORE TESTS ARE AUTHORIZED

Both In Wildcat Territory; Warren Co. To Drill Big Creek "Twin"

Two permits to drill core tests in wildcat territory were listed in the weekly report of the Monroe conservation district, issued yesterday.

One went to the Shell Oil Company for what will be known as its Frost Lumber Co. No. 3 well in section 3-23-3E in Union parish. The location is two miles northeast of the town of Litro, a half-mile south of the Arkansas line and about 6 miles north of the gas field. The permit application said oil would be sought in the Comanchen Zone.

The other test will be by Murphy-Sun in section 6-17-11E in Madison parish, seven miles northeast of Delhi and 4 miles northeast of the eastern end of the Delhi field extension in which 22 producers have been brought in since last September. The unit is known as the Mrs. J. W. Lewis et al, No. 1.

Another of the five new locations announced in the weekly report carried a permit to the Warren Petroleum Company to drill a "twin" well, Hixon Holdiness No. A-1, in the Big Creek field in section 7-16-8E in Richland parish. A recent ruling by the state conservation commission defined the Williams sand as a different reservoir from the Price sand, permitting separate walls where both sands are encountered, as in that area.

The fourth new location is the Hawgley Drilling Company's F. Roy Williams No. 1 also in section 7-16-8E in the Big Creek field, and the fifth is the Interstate National's Fee No. 197 in section 5-20-3E in the Union parish gas field.

The Interstate National's Fee No. 194 in section 4-20-3E in Union parish was one of the three completions during the week. It was officially gauged at 1,282,000 cubic feet of gas per day. The other completions were the previously reported Murphy-Sun Lane-Duckworth No. 1 in the Delhi field, which flowed at the rate of 254 barrels of oil per day, and Burden & Kemp's Butler No. 1, in the South Big Creek field, gauged at 166 barrels per day.

The Shell Company is drilling another core test, the Frost Lumber Co. No. 2 six miles north of Farmerville, in section 14-22-1W of Union parish, and was reported yesterday to have reached a depth of 2,200 feet.

Other test wells, on which no reports are made to the conservation department, are in the progress of drilling. They are the Gulf Refining Company's Washington A-2, nine miles east of Mangham; the Murphy-Sun's Federal Land Bank No. 1, between Holly Ridge and Delhi, three-quarters of a mile north of U. S. 80 and the I. C. Railroad, and the Standolind Oil Company's Chicago Mill & Lumber Co. No. 1, in section 4-18-11E in East Carroll parish, ten miles northeast of Delhi.

The Robert T. Sellars Company was reported Saturday as building roads preparatory to starting to drill its Walker No. 1 well in section 11-16-7E of Richland parish at the southwest tip of the Big Creek field.

Transfer of the Big Island field in north Rapides parish from the Monroe to the Lafayette district was announced this week. The field has three wells producing from below 9,000 feet.

program from KMLB. I had no idea that I could hear it so far from Monroe and it was perfectly clear in tone. Now I shall be sure to tune in each night and I shall especially appreciate hearing local news above all else."

A local oil company is quite pleased in that its two-way radio system is now in full operation between the Monroe offices and its drilling wells some miles distant out in the oil fields. H. E. Griffith made the installation and he is quite proud that the system is working satisfactorily.

Rev. E. L. Tanner, West Monroe pastor, was made happy on his birthday Sunday when he was surprised when donated by church members a gift of a brand new automobile. Makes him feel that his more than 20 years of faithful service as pastor is really appreciated.

Albert (Frenchy) Thibeaux, Sr., skilled local fisherman, together with his four-year-old son, "Junior," and John Elmendorf, a-fishin' went at Bayou DeSiard, Friday. The expedition resulted in the small boy's capture of a five-pound three-ounce bass via a fly rod. He was naturally the happiest small boy in Monroe and Friday, April 4, will go down in his personal history as a "red letter" day for him.

Police Desk Sgt. H. J. McMurry and City Jailer W. A. Leonard are a couple of astute and observant officials and when they team up they get quick and amazing results. They are the department's "window sleuths."

The sergeant was broadcasting the number and description of a Texas car involved in an attempted criminal assault case Friday afternoon when Leonard, standing behind the desk and looking out a window of the second-floor police station, pointed downward to the Grammont street corner and exclaimed, "That's the machine right there." It was, too, and the arrest of accused owner quickly followed.

About a year ago the same two officers were looking out that identical window just after the sergeant had received a radio broadcast reporting a car stolen that morning in Shreveport by a woman wearing a red coat and hat. "There she goes now," suddenly shouted McMurry, indicating a feminine figure tripping into the Virginia Hotel, and they dashed downstairs and across the street and apprehended her as she was ascending the hotel stairway. Brought to headquarters she quickly broke down and tearfully confessed.

J. E. Zufall, 507 Moore avenue, isn't the last person to be listed in the local telephone directory for that honor goes to Tony Zurga, 600 Wood street, West Monroe, Mr. Zufall, now 54 years of age, was one of the oldest men serving with the Seabees in the recent war, being stationd in the Aleutians. And his name on the list of men there appeared along with another "Z," this time a man named Zybras.

7 AGENCIES

conflict with Allied control council policy.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall argued that to give the zone commanders such veto powers would destroy the very German unity which the Allies were trying to arrange by setting up the central agencies.

He said that when civilian authorities took over from the military, the power of the military should be decreased rather than increased.

There was four-power agreement, however, on suggestion from British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin that an advisory council should be set up three months after establishing the agencies and that nine months later the provisional German government should come into being.

Meanwhile, in a committee meeting outside the Council Soviet Deputy Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky charged angrily that U. S. Ambassador Robert D. Murphy was distorting the Soviet viewpoint when Murphy asserted that the Russians were seeking to create a strong central government in Germany similar to that which existed under Adolf Hitler.

The brief flareup, which ended with a calm response from Murphy and an apology from Vishinsky, occurred while the committee was discussing a Soviet proposal that the German central government should have security powers.

French Delegate Maurice Couve De Murville said what Vishinsky had in mind was police power. Murphy agreed, but said the committee was not now the place to discuss the assignment of such powers.

Vishinsky replied that what he was proposing was only what the United States government had in the way of security powers, making the point that both Washington, D. C., and state governments have police forces.

The French delegate said that what other people feared was creation of another German Gestapo. Murphy declared that the American position was against a police system controlled by the central government and that Vishinsky's proposal meant creation of a strong central government which was not foreseen under the Potsdam pact. The U. S. wants a decentralized government.

It was at this point that Vishinsky, becoming angry, accused Murphy of distorting the Soviet viewpoint.

Murphy replied he did not want to argue the point but merely wanted to say that, while the United States had only 170 years' experience in a federal form of government, it had learned it was impossible to make exhaustive lisits of functions of government in a single document.

Murphy said he wanted Vishinsky to note she was not going into the police system in the Soviet Union. Vishinsky, regaining his calm, said he must apologize and added he did not pretend to be as competent as Murphy in discussing the American police system.

In another conference development, Edward Kardelj, vice-premier of the Yugoslav republic, told a press conference that Yugoslavia would press its demands for $150,000,000 in reparations from Austria and incorporation of Austrian Carinthia into Yugoslavia.

The transfer of the territory would place 120,000 Yugoslavs and 60,000 Austrians under Yugoslav rule, he said while more than 70,000 Yugoslavs would remain in Austria. A population exchange, he suggested, would restore these peoples to their native lands.

and that the state required that only $54,591.06 should be paid.

In 1945-46 there was paid thus a total of $86,652.50 divided as follows between white and negro teachers. White teachers received a total of $45,391.06 and negro teachers $12,210.39. This made $3,010.36 paid over and above the requirement, figures disclosed.

Minor repairs to school buildings were authorized and Architect H. H. Land was named to draw plans for any more extensive alterations.

Other routine business was transacted.

"Oh it isn't half as bad as that.

"Here you go, along the street, with your head down—and a frown on your face—and looking like the whole world has gone to pot.

"Smile up, fellow—cheer up—the sun is shining—and spring is here—and the worms are rising—and the fish are biting ——"

"Stop, man—you'll have me headed for a fishing hole during work hours ——"

The first three paragraphs above were spoken to the writer a couple of days ago by a man whom you know—a man whom everyone knows—and respects—a noted educator who has seen many springs and very few winters.

'And he, having spoken—I raised my eyes—and wiped off the frown—and looked—and saw the trees bursting forth in bud—and the flowers in their glory—and a fish bait coming up to do his patriotic duty—and someone said the fish are beginning to bite—and things aren't half bad after all!

Isn't this a glorious Easter!

Easter, 1947

"And lo, I am with you always even unto the end of the world." These words, spoken by Jesus, hold a special meaning on an Easter Day which is being celebrated while the nations, though at peace, are still in turmoil. They are a call for men and women to renew the faith that is in them. They are the anchor which will keep the ship of the world from drifting aimlessly over the waters.

In a very literal sense they represent, too, the permanence and the security which peoples everywhere are seeking today. When Jesus told his followers that He would be with them always he meant to say that the teachings they had had from Him and the example of sacrifice and devotion he had given them would be forever as a light in the darkness.

Now, as never before, we need that light. We need it to lead men and nations from the paths of selfishness so that unity may be achieved and the peace of the world made secure.

In city and hamlet the anniversary of the resurrection will be celebrated as millions gather to renew their faith in Him who came to redeem the world. Through that renewal will come the hope eternal in the human breast that man will rise above his earthly environment and attain the end for which he was created. In fervent prayers and hymns of praise he again will glimpse the glories yet to come.

The Christian faith has been the one enduring thing in the hearts of men. Since that day Christ emerged from the tomb, to fulfill a divine prophecy, dynasties have crumbled, the most ambitious of human efforts have come to naught. As century followed century nothing has survived except hope for the redemption of a world made gross by the sins of mankind. That hope remains today, undimmed, as it will remain until the day of fulfillment.

UNITED GAS FRANCHISE

On Tuesday, April 22, qualified voters of Monroe will go to the polls to decide upon the granting of a gas franchise to United Gas Corporation.

Details of the franchise have been worked out with the mayor and city commissioners which required frequent discussions during the past year.

Due to changing conditions brought about during the 30 years since gas was brought to Monroe, the old gas franchise must be modernized to meet present-day conditions. For instance, city schools were given free gas under the old franchise, whereas under the new franchise all schools will be given a 15c rate. The new franchise contains a rate of 6 1/2c per thousand for gas used at the power plant, whereas one of the franchises expiring last year contained a rate of 5c and another a rate of 6c for gas used at the power plant.

The franchise retains the low 27c net rate for residential and commercial consumers which has been charged in Monroe for the past 30 years. This low 27c rate will save the residential users in Monroe, during the next 25 years under rates charged in other Louisiana towns which have recently renewed or extended their gas franchises, from two and one-half to four and one-half million dollars.

The majority of the qualified voters of Monroe are interested in the low residential rate which the new franchise provides, and it can be stated that this is one of the cheapest residential rates in the state of Louisiana, if not in the nation.

The franchise itself has been published in full, and a copy is on file at the city hall for your inspection. Section 13 of act 13 of 1934, third extra session, provides that a franchise must be granted by ordinance and the ordinance must be authorized or approved by a majority of electors voting at a special election called by the city council. Therefore, the city council cannot grant a franchise without the approval of the majority of the qualified voters.

Above are the essential points in the new franchise to be voted upon April 22. All qualified voters should study them and make sure to go to the polls to register their individual decision.

CAUTION CAN BE TAUGHT

There are two points especially worth noting in the lengthy statistical report of the National Safety Council for 1946. They are the points in which the analysis of the 100,000 accidental death and 10,400,000 accidental injuries suffered by the people of the United States last year suggests means of improving the record in the future.

The first, and perhaps most hopeful, is the fact that accidental deaths of children between five and fourteen years of age decreased eight per cent last year. This was the sole age group in the nation in which the rate showed a decline. That fact can be attributed, without hesitation, to the effective safety education campaign which has been pushed in the schools. Whether these children, when they grow up, will avoid accidents more successfully than the present crop of adults remains to be seen. But the figures prove that safety can be taught and that the caution which saves lives can be instilled.

More evidence, along the same line, can be found in figures on highway deaths from automobiles. For 1946 the total was 33,500, considerably higher than 1945's total of 28,076. But the death rate dipped sharply in May in response to a concerted safety program undertaken by public officials.

What this adds up to is that people can be safe, if they care to take the trouble to watch what they are doing at play, on the highways and at work. Most of the year's accidents were avoidable. The difficulty is that too many people have yet to take to heart the simple maxim that "it is better to be safe than sorry" and have yet to learn that it is more sensible to lose ten seconds than to lose a life.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, April 5.—The No. 1 screen hit in occupied Germany is "Going My Way"—which should prove that the German people were not completely weaned of religious interests by the Nazis . . . Time out for Jimmy Cagney, bedded by flu bugs . . . Blue-pencil those reports that Anne Baxter and John Hodiak have dated Doc Stork: instead of buying baby clothes, they're stocking up on fishing tackle for a swordfishing jaunt in Mexico. . . Albert Dekker says he's going to run for mayor of Los Angeles . . . The Madman Muntz-Joan Barton romance has iced and he's dating Adele Mara now.

The obstetrician who delivered Mickey Rooney's second spring-off has billed papa for $6,000; Mickey says he'll see him in court . . . Eddie Albert, who produces documentary films in his spare time, has been inked by the state department to film a two-reeler on the activities of Richmond, California's "Minority Police," an organization specially trained to handle racial frictions . . . Looks like a court battle between Charlie Chaplin and Director Robert Florey, who charges that he's being gyped out of screen credits due him for work on Chaplin's current picture.

Actress Linda Ware, convalescing from one serious operation, faces a second as soon as her strength is rebuilt . . . Cited for the Croix de Merite: Frank Sinatra, for donating his entire salary ($100,000) from his acting stint in "Miracle of the Bells" to Catholic Youth organizations . . . Ha! Now the movie critics in Italy are charging that the "clinches" in American movies lack feeling and sincerity!

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of the week: Universal-International's "The Egg and I" (Claudette Colbert-Fred MacMurray-Marjorie Main). Off-the-beaten-path comedy that is sure to hatch out a lot of hearty laughs. . . . RECOMMENDED: Enterprise-United Artists' "The Other Love" (Barbara Stanwyck-David Niven-Richard Conte). Top-notch drama with a Triple-A rating for femme fans . . . . Universal-International's "Great Expectations" (John Mills-Valerie Hobson). A made-in-England screen version of the Dickens classic that even the author would cheer . . . FAIR: Warner Brothers' "Love and Learn" (Jack Carson-Robert Hutton-Martha Vickers). Brash comedy, amusing in spots but too obviously tailored to fit its star . . . LOW BRIDGE: Screen Guild's "Queen of the Amazons" (Robert Lowery-Patricia Morison). Duck when you see it coming . . . BEST PERFORMANCE: Barbara Stanwyck in "The Other Love."

The other day English Actress Deborah Kerr, borught here to play a top role in "The Hucksters," took time out to deny some of the things reported about her, from time to time, by Hollywood columnists. Said she: "I'm NOT taking out citizenship papers. I LOATHE ice cream. I'm NOT feuding with Greer Garson or anyone else." It occurs to me that Miss Kerr has practically disqualified herself for Hollywood stardom by one of those negative statements. There's nothing unusual in a European star refusing to become an American citizen; we're used to that. Certainly no one can object to the lady's dislike for ice cream; this is still a free country where the choice of food is concerned. But a star who isn't feuding with anyone! Hmmm . . . that's being just too, too eccentric!

When Paul Robeson, the famous Negro singer, gave a concert in Los Angeles recently, he sang the Communist "People's Battle Song" as one of his numbers and even had the gall to dedicate it to Gerhardt Eisler, now identified as America's No. 1 Red. Several members of the audience got up and walked out. Well, I'm surprised that any good American stayed. What Robeson does to himself or his career, I, frankly, don't give a hang. But it makes me sick to see a man in his position, who could do so much to help the people of his race, using his prestige in an attempt to sell a subversive foreign "ism." I'm sure the Negro people have no room in their hearts for one of their own number who would sell them so short—and I'm equally sure that there should be no room in America for a man of any race who seeks to undermine the democracy that has made it possible for a Paul Robeson to win fame and fortune.

The announcement that the Marx Brothers and the Ritz Brothers are to co-star in a comedy melodrama based on the celebrated feud between the Hatfields and the McCoys seems to have been in error—and perhaps it's just as well that it was. Stellar temperaments being what they are when subjected to the frictions that occur on a movie set, it's quite possible that by the time the production chores were finished, there would have been a Marx-Ritz feud hot enough to make the historic Hatfield-McCoy brawl seem like sissy stuff.

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Congress has taken a terrible political gamble by voting to end all sugar price and rationing controls October 31. Sugar experts point to these possible developments:

Normally, October is the time when U. S. sugar stocks are at lowest levels. The home canning season is over. Ice cream sales are down. The Christmas candy makers have acquired all their stocks and are processing them.

At this same time sugar supplies are flowing into the United States at the lowest rate. The last of the Cuban and West Indian crop, which is major source of supply, is harvested in May and June, comes to market in July and August. Only the Hawaiian crop, which is harvested all year round, moves to the mainland in quantity during the late summer and early fall. The U. S. domestic cane and beet sugar crop isn't harvested till October, doesn't get to market till November.

At first glance it might appear that this would be a good time to take off sugar controls. The Congress thought so, at any rate, for that's what they voted.

The catch in this situation for consumers is that anyone in the sugar business, knowing that controls are coming off October 31, may start holding his supplies in September or August, or even in July, hoping to make a killing at higher prices in November and December.

Congressional Supporters

Midwestern and California beet sugar areas and Florida and Louisiana cane sugar areas also stand a chance to make a killing. Their crops are harvested in the fall, their sugar hits the market in November. While this domestic sugar industry is planting heavily this spring, the size of the crop is limited by the capacity of the mills. It's about two million tons for beet sugar, half a million tons for cane. Just enough for a nice fall clean-up.

It was political pressure from these cane and beet areas which was largely responsible for removing controls Oct. 31. Republican Congressmen Jesse Wolcott and Fred Crawford of Michigan, Democratic Senators John Overton and Allen Ellender of Louisiana, Republicans Joe McCarthy from Wisconsin, Hugh Butler and Kenneth Wherry from Nebraska.

In debate on the floor, the whole issue was put on the high ground of getting more sugar for the housewife. Actually, the principal motive of the politicians seems to have been a desire to get rid of controls—even if they were good controls.

In hearings before Senate and House Banking committees which handled this legislation, practically everyone in the sugar business favored retaining the controls till next Dec. 31 or March 31. There was one exception. That was the Pepsi-Cola Co., whose spokesman wanted controls taken off immediately. All the others agreed that decontrol now would bring only chaos.

Bumper Crop Can Save Day

Another argument which the congressional supporters of decontrol advanced was that there were larger sugar supplies in sight than was generally admitted. Early reports from Cuba indicate that the 1947 crop may be five-and-a-half or six million tons, instead of the five million tons originally estimated.

If these bumper-crop predictions are fulfilled the situation may be saved. If there should be a crop failure the shortage would be worse than is now anticipated.

No responsible sugar expert will now predict how short he supply might be next fall, nor how high the price might go. But if there is a shortage, it is generally agreed that the industrial users will stand a far better chance to get what there is and that consumers will be left on the short end. With no rationing controls in force, consumers wouldn't have a chance. With Congress not in session from August to December, there would be no way to put controls back on.

In general the sugar industry is afraid of high prices, even if it does mean big quick profits for one year. Too many sugar men remember what happened after World War I, when sugar went to 40 cents a pound. Next year they were all broke.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture: I Samuel, Chapters 9-19, 28, 31

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The kingdom was the kingdom of Israel, with its first king, Saul, standing head and shoulders above the people, chosen to be their leader and acclaimed as all the people shouted, "God save the King"

It seemed an auspicious moment in the life of Israel, but the accounts, probably composed into the book of I Samuel by a later hand, are somewhat conflicting. The king is represented as "God's anointed," and Samuel is represented as acting with divine authority in anointing Saul.

But in I Samuel 10:19, Samuel charges that the demand of the people for a king is a rejection of God. He predicts with realistic somberness the oppressions and extortions that the establishment of a king will bring upon the people.

The passage is very striking in view of the role that, with some notable exceptions, kings have played in history. And light is thrown upon the words of Samuel by what happened a little later, when the people rebelled against the oppressions of Solomon, about to be reimposed by his son, Rehoboam, and civil war rent the kingdom in twain, never to be reunited.

Why should there be so much interest in the political history and life of a numerically small people so long ago in a country no larger than one of the smaller American states?

The answer is that the record is a part of the Bible, which has been truly called "God's Book for Man's Life." So far as I am aware, there is nowhere else in all literature a record that in so comparatively small a compass sets forth with such clearness and precision the incidents and causes in the rise and fall of nations and the conditions that make for welfare, stability, peace, strife, tragedy, and decay.

Moreover it is in the life of a comparatively primitive people emerging into statehood on a comparatively small scale that one can observe more clearly and accurately than in a complex modern society the forces and laws that are at work and that have their effect on welfare or disaster.

We can see and study in the kingdom of Israel, and in all the issues associated with it, the precise elements that make for welfare or disaster today, obscured though they may be by all the accretions and developments that have multiplied our problems. We can do this without altering the basic and essential conditions of their solution.

We want to read and study these lessons not merely with an eye to what happened long ago, but with a real sense of what they may tell us about what is happening today. Their value and effect for us will be lost if we do not read them in the light or darkness, of our own times.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE WASHINGEST WOMEN ON EARTH—The average woman of Korea spends an average of 2,500 hours a year in laundering clothes and in pasting them together after washing. The clothes are pasted together, not sewn. 2,500 hours is more than 100 days a year, and if you consider that she must spend 100 days a year in sleeping, she literally spends half of her life washing and pasting.

Our Children

HONOR TO THE TEACHER

The papers carry story after story of the honors done some hero, some politician, some businessman but none about honoring a teacher. Now if anybody in the world ever earned a medal, a testimonial dinner, a golden jubilee, it is the teacher who faithfully—day in and day out—teaches the children in his care to the best of his ability.

Why teachers are not recoginzed as first-class citizens is not easy to see. A mother who has four or five children cannot find an hour to rest when they are at home. She is worn out with their activities, their waywardness, their continual demands. Yet the teacher has charge of a great group, 40—maybe more—children in one room. They must be trained and developed into thoughtful, reasoning human beings. Yet in many places today, it is not considered a heavy task. A mother of one child shoved him through the door of a classroom filled to capacity and said, "Please take him. I can't stand him another minute." The teacher smiled and took him. I was there.

The public school teacher is a heroine every day. She faces a difficult task every morning and no matter what happens—come fire, flood, tempest or quake—she stands by her duty. When the fire-drill gongs crash through the quiet of a school, nobody in that room knows whether the danger is real or a possibility. Each teacher gathers her class and marshals them through the doors and out to safety. Once there, she counts her group. Should one be missing, she goes back to find him, leaving her charges in the care of another responsible teacher.

There are days, however, when the teacher's soul is tried by ordeal worse than fire or tempest—an unteachable, unruly, unreasonable child. The teachers knows that nobody but she can reach the inner beings of this child. She holds to this task, every nerve in her body quivering, her mind and soul centered on the redemption of the odd one.

The public school teacher is the bulwark of the nation. She takes her raw human material and trains, trims, directs, inspires its growth. She takes the burdened parent's responsibilities, eases their load, helps them rear a child worthy of his citizenship in this great nation. She makes the good better, the better best, and lifts the impossible one to a place where he can hold his own and be a part of the life about him.

Wiser than the wisest, kinder than the kindest, more understanding than the best, is the teacher's standard of being and doing. She, more than all others, should be honored.

Lying is a habit which seems harmless at its beginning but one that may prove very difficult to break. How to tackle this tough problem is explained by Dr. Patri in his leaflet, "Lying," No. P-15.

Pitching Horseshoes
By Billy Rose

It hadn't been much of a day. And then the phone rang.

Billy Rose

"Major Timothy Morgan to see you," said the girl at the switchboard.

"Send the old swindler down," I told her.

The self-commissioned Major walked in, as usual exuding bourbon, sen-sen and larceny. In addition, he was sporting a black eye you couldn't hide with two dollars worth of steak.

"Where'd you get the shiner?" I asked him.

The moth-eaten mountebank ignored the question and went into his pitch. "A hundred dollars buys a scale, a tripod, and half a gross of kewpie dolls. An extra dollar buys the basket in which we carry the money to the bank."

"Where'd you get the shiner?" I repeated. "No story, no touch. Give."

Timothy sighed. "Ah, memories that bless and burn. It happened in Georgia. I was working my way north from Miami. Outside Savannah, I got into an argument with an unsympathetic brakeman and found myself walking. Toward evening, just outside the city limits, I saw the friendly lights of a ferris wheel. My boy, it was like a lantern in the window.

"It was the Considine Wonder Shows. I walked up the midway, again breathing the life-giving fragrance of popcorn and old canvas. Near the snake show, a gentleman was dealing Three-Card Monte. I gave him the fraternal grip and offered my services as a shill. A sizable crowd collected to watch me try to find the Queen. The dealer let me win two dollars for my efforts. I allowed myself to be crowded away from the table by the eager sportsmen and kept walking.

"Spring was making itself felt in Georgia that night. The merry-makers were walking two-by-two. Suddenly I felt a little lonely and old. I stopped for a moment and watched Waleska, the lady wrestler, flexing her muscles and offering to take on all comers.

"And then I saw Her! A canvas sign above her head outlined her name in silver flitter—Roberta, the Bearded Lady!

"She was sitting on a wooden platform giving the populace a free look at the luxuriant chin-growth Nature had bestowed on her. As I gazed upon this matchless creature combing out her red whiskers, I was smitten with a sentiment too delicate and subtle to describe.

"That night, instead of investing the dealer's deuce in pork chops, I bought a box of candy in the shape of a red heart. From an unattended burial plot nearby, I gathered up an armful of early Spring flowers. When the sideshow lights began to dim, I went calling on my intended."

"Hold on," I cut in. "You mean you wanted to marry the bearded lady?"

"That was my intention, sir," boomed the Major. "Her poise and charm had impressed me tremendously. Also, I had plans. With my showmanship and her beard, I could see nothing but sunshine and roses. I envisioned our life together, she with ribbons in her beard, and I with money in every pocket. And the older she got, the longer the beard and the bigger the take."

"Don't stop," I said. "This I gotta hear."

The run-down Romeo continued. "A barker told me Roberta was living in a trailer behind her tent, near that of Waleska, the lady wrestler. I knocked on her door and boldly entered. Roberta, in a flowered dressing gown, was putting curlers in her magnificient shrubbery.

"I introduced myself and began describing what her life would be like as Mrs. Major Timothy Morgan. I painted word-pictures of our triumphal tour through the capitals of the world. In a moment, I was stroking her silky beard. Roberta seemed unaccountably shy.

"I sensed the occasion called for the approach impetuous. I threw my arms around the lady and began whispering half-remembered love words in her ear."

The Major took out a red handkerchief and delicately mopped the back of his neck.

"Don't stop now," I panted. "What happened?"

"There is litle more to tell," said Timothy Morgan. "Roberta let out a holler which shook the side walls of the trailer. Next thing I knew, Waleska, the lady wrestler, burst into the trailer and seized me in a double hammerlock. She spun me around her head and bounced me up and down like a yo-yo. Roberta indicated her endorsement of these proceedings by planting her red high-heeled slipper in my eye."

"I don't get it," I said. "Why the mayhem? You're not a bad-looking fellow."

"The barker explained everything," said the Major. "Waleska, the lady wrestler, was enamoured of Roberta. And up to two seasons ago, Roberta was better known as Bob Kranz, shortstop for the House of David baseball team!"

EQUIPMENT FOR GUARD PROMISED

Added Supplies Promised By General Fleming, Adjutant General

Greatly increased supplies of modern and complete equipment will shortly be shipped to the Louisiana National Guard, Brigadier-General Raymond H. Fleming, the adjutant-general of Louisiana, has been advised by Major-General Butler B. Miltonberger, chief of the National Guard Bureau, Washington, D. C.

A change in the war department's supply priority system has resulted in a speedier assignment of available equipment to the National Guard, now in the process of reorganizing to its greatest peacetime strength in history.

Shipments of combat vehicles needed for National Guard training are now being assembled with each unit slated to receive at least one-quarter of its total allowance immediately. This means Brigadier-General Fleming explained, enough tanks, self-propelled weapons, armored cars, tractors and utility tractors to permit Louisiana's National Guard to start active training. Where standard equipment items are not available, units will be furnished suitable substitutes.

For maintenance of this equipment, members of the National Guard with various technical skills will be employed in a full-time civilian capacity. The principal technical skills required are: Blacksmith, automotive electricians, automotive mechanics, tank mechanics, radio repairmen, telephone and telegraph repairmen, carpenter, artillery mechanics, aircraft welder, engine and airplane mechanic and painter.

To further the National Guard program, a considerable number of war department installations throughout the country have been made available to the states, under war department license, for administrative, storage and motor maintenance purposes. National Guard Bureau funds have also been made available to the state for maintenance and repair of camps, storage and target ranges. In addition, efforts will be made to allocate federal funds for urgently needed construction and repair work essential to the development of the State National Guard.

Mackenzie's Column

By DeWitt Mackenzie

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

We are more than figuratively close to the truth in remarking that it will require the wisdom of a Solomon to enable the United Nations to reach a satisfactory solution of the bitter Arab-Jewish differences in Palestine.

The literature of both Jews and Mohammedans through the centuries has credited King Solomon with being the wisest of men. If Arabs and Jews still agree on this point, it's probably the only thing upon which they do see eye to eye. So it's clear that the sages of the peace organization must exercise the highest degree of wisdom if they are to succeed.

That puts the United Nations itself on trial in a big way. It calls upon it to demonstrate whether it is capable of settling a great international issue which for thirty years not only has failed to respond to British remedies but has grown steadily worse.

I've been studying this volcanic situation ever since its inception, much of the time at close range, and believe that psychologically it has deteriorated so much that the Jews and Arabs probably never would accept any British decision. Some observers hold that Britain and America together might have succeeded in settling the issue a year ago, but even that possibility no longer seems to exist.

Still, the position isn't without hope. If the United Nations can evolve a program which will be acceptable to world opinion as represented in the organization, then the Arabs and Jews are more likely to accept it. Indeed, they undoubtedly would hesitate to go against world opinion.

So far as England is concerned, she hasn't decided to relinquish the mandate over Palestine and wouldn't necessarily consider United Nations recommendations as binding on her. She isn't saying in advance that she will implement a United Nations program. As a matter of fact, she already has made it clear that she would be unable to furnish more troops or money for Palestine, and thus would be unable to comply with any plans which called on her for these things.

However, it is said in well-informed United Nations circles that England would accept a big majority decision by the United Nations, even though she might not accept the same decision on a close vote.

As the United Nations tackles this highly controversial issue there is at least one favorable aspect. So far as the peace organization is concerned, the question is fresh. It isn't, for instance, like the Greek problem which already had produced a split among the powers before it arose in the United Nations.

Of course, success must be premised on agreement among the big five—America, Britain, Russia, France and China. And that may not be too easy to achieve, since all these countries, except China, have interests in the Levant. If it came to the use of military force, this would have to be provided by the big five, since the United Nations has none of its own as yet, and a veto by one of the great powers would stymie the project.

The United Nations starts with a clean slate in trying to settle this Palestine difficulty with its many ramifications. There's nothing in sight for a solution, and there is much organization to be carried out before active search for a new plan can be undertaken.

JUDGE HENDRICK ISSUES STATEMENT

Admits He Is Considering Becoming A Candidate For Governor

SHREVEPORT, April 5.—(Special)—Judge Ruvian D. Hendrick, of Shreveport, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor in the next election today issued the following statement:

"In answer to the many inquiries I have received in regard to the possibility of becoming a candidate for governor I would like to say that I have always been interested in the political affairs of our state. In 1932 I was a candidate for lieutenant-governor and am sure that the people well remember the fight I waged at that time and while opposed by the state machine that was in power I received more votes for the office of lieutenant-governor than any other candidate outside of the city of New Orleans. I have always felt that if it hadn't been for the manipulations of the machine in the city of New Orleans and the state of Louisiana that were in power at that time, I would have won by a large majority.

"I realize that the person that is governor for the next four years will have a great opportunity for service to the people of Louisiana. I am at the present time serving as city judge of Shreveport and believe that my record is one of achievement. I feel sure that if I should become governor my term will be filled with achievements that will be of outstanding benefit to the people of the state of Louisiana.

"In regard to the possibility of becoming a candidate for governor, I am giving the matter serious consideration and will make a decision within the next few days. In the meantime, I deeply appreciate the interest that is being manifested in this regard by my many friends throughout the entire state."

DEMARET HOLDS 3-STROKE MARGIN AMONG MASTERS

Leading Money Winner Of Year Shows Good Form; Nelson, M'Spaden Second

By Chick Hosch

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5.—(AP)—Jimmy Demaret, the year's leading money winner, overcame a stiff wind and erratic shots off the tee today to post a two-under par 70 for a three-stroke lead in the $10,000 Masters Golf Tournament. He had a 54-hole total of 210 to remain at the top of the heap.

The singing ex-Texan, who captured the 1940 Masters title by four strokes—biggest margin in any of the previous ten events—had five birdies but was over par on each of three other holes.

Tied for second with 213 were the original gold dust twins, Harold McSpaden of Sanford, Me., and Byron Nelson of Roanoke, Texas, who won the event here in 1937 and 1942. McSpaden had a 70 today. Nelson shot a 72, making a marvelous recovery on the back nine after going out in a 39.

Deadlocked with 214 were Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., the runnerup in 1942 and last year, Chick Harbert of Detroit, and Jim Ferrier of Chicago. Harbert and Hogan posted 71 today. Ferrier slipped to 38 on the back nine after going out in 35 to take 73.

A 35 on each nine, one under par in each case, enabled Demaret to shake off Cary Middlecoff, the sensational young Memphis dentist who shared the lead with the Ojai, Calif., pro at the halfway mark.

Middlecoff remained in the running with a brilliant recovery on the back nine after a poor 40, going out. He had a 36 coming in for 76 and a 216 total.

Demaret got off to a good start with a birdie on the 525-yard, par 4, second hole when he chipped to within two feet of the cup and dropped it. He lost the stroke on the short 6th when he missed the green.

On the 7th and long 8th he carded birdies, but lost a stroke on the ninth.

On the back nine, he dropped a stroke on the 11th. At the long 15th he was home in two and two-putted for a birdie, and then laid his tee shot two feet from the cup on the short 16th to get another birdie.

Middlecoff, 26, was even par on the first six holes but went one over on the 7th, two over on the 8th with a seven, and one over on the 9th and tenth. He recovered with some brilliant iron shots to birdie the 13th and 15th holes and par the rest until he came to the 18th where he lost another stroke. He missed a four-foot putt at 17 to take a par.

Bracketed at 215 were Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., who took the lead among the amateurs from Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., and Henry Picard of Cleveland.

Chapman, with 74 today, tied Mangrum and Harper at 217, as did Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., Fred Haas of New Orleans, and Lew Worsham of Washington, D. C. Palmer shot a 74, Haas had 73 and Worsham 71.

CLARKS, COLUMBIA WILL MEET TODAY

CLARKS, La., April 5. (Special) The Clarks Lumberjacks and the Columbia Ramblers, Caldwell parish rivals in the North Louisiana Baseball League, will meet in an exhibition here Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Louisiana Central Lumber Company's park.

The game is being regarded as something in the way of an "opening day" preview since the Lumberjacks and Ramblers are scheduled to meet here May 4 in one of the league's four opening day games.

Manager E. M. Steely of Clarks announced today his plans to use three hurlers on the mound Sunday. He named his three choices as Bruce Gough, a lefthander; Drew Takewell, a righthander; and Tom Perry, the former Monroe White Sox ace who also pitched with the Mobile Bears of the Southern Association and Houma in the Evangeline League. Catching duties for Clarks will be shared by Woody Boyles, Northeast Junior College athlete, and Miles, a former East Texas League.

The Clarks park has undergone renovations since last season, and the Lumberjacks are promising a much better field to offer their visitors.

MONROE'S TEAM FOR STATE GOLF EVENT SELECTED

Six-Man Club Faces Shreveport In First Opposition Here Next Sunday

The Monroe golf team, which will compete for the state championship in a series of meets beginning next Sunday, was determined here yesterday afternoon over the McGuire Park Golf Club's course in West Monroe where candidates for places on the squad won their places on a purely qualifying basis.

Low scorers in the qualifying round were selected for the six-man team which includes Bill Jones, city champion of Monroe who qualified with a par 72; E. S. "Shep" Girault, 75; Harold McClendon, Bastrop, 77; Wesley Shafto, 79; Kenneth Holt, 79, and Ed Shaver, 80.

The alternate spots went to Ben Downing Sr., and Robert Guerriero.

The Monroe golf team faces its first competition in the state eliminations here next Sunday against Shreveport over the McGuire layout. The teams will play 36 holes, eighteen in morning rounds and eighteen in afternoon rounds.

Teams competing for the title are Monroe, Shreveport, Alexandria, and Lake Charles in the western district, and New Orleans, Lafayette, New Iberia, and Baton Rouge in the eastern district. All teams will be playing next Sunday.

In addition to the Monroe-Shreveport matches, Lake Charles will be at Alexandria, Baton Rouge at New Orleans, and New Iberia at Lafayette. The winners in the first district matches will meet in the semi-finals the following Sunday, and the finals will be played May 9.

Match play elimination on a point basis similar to the Walker Cup competition will govern the scoring in all matches.

MODEL AIRCRAFTSMEN EXCHANGE CLUB GUESTS

Eight members of the Monroe Model Aircraft Club including President Jac Combs and Chief Pilot, Bill Vincent, attended the annual banquet of the Exchange Club. The others present were Tommy Mingledorff, Tommy "Otto" Elioff, Pat Jenevcine, Hobson Norris, Fred Hancock, and Stanley Hodges. Combs and the boys explained to the Exchangers how the planes were constructed. Bill Vincent explained how each plane behaved while in flight and how controlled. All of the boys enjoyed the opportunity to show the planes to members of the Exchange Club.

The model club held its meeting Friday night when it admitted two new members to the club. They are John Schroeder and John Ellett.

The membership cards were distributed to each member at the meeting that night. The cards were the compliments of Wilson Ewing of the Monroe Morning World and News-Star. It was also stated that these cards will be put to their first use when the club journies to the Shreveport meet next Sunday.

After the meeting several boys displayed their planes and motors. Of the ships there the outstanding were Bob Clay's and Watkin Leigh's speed ships. Both are of excellent workmanship. The club also enjoyed the running of the "Mite Diesel."

Combs announced that there would be flying this afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock at its regular flying field. He also extends an invitation to the people of the Twin Cities to come out and enjoy the Easter spirit of the boys.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 5.—(AP)—Rookie Catcher Eddie McGah, carried as insurance in the No. 3 spot last season and kept with the Boston Red Sox because he was a former service man, improves daily. McGah's rooters on the club say he will be the No. 1 receiver by next season at the latest.

Proposed N.C.A.A. Purity Code Faces Opposition At New Orleans Meeting

Five Conferences Plan Bloc Against Big Nine, Pacific Coast, And Ivy League

ATLANTA, April 5.—(AP)—Sports Editor Ed Danforth of the Atlanta Journal said today in his column, "Ear to the Ground," that the Southeastern Conference "with its open grants-in-aid to athletes has no chance to persuade any athlete to come south if the Big Nine or Ivy League really wants him.

"The Big Nine, Ivy League and Pacific Coast," Danforth wrote, "are giving adequate, even generous aid to athletes and recruiting briskly but pretending not to do so."

Danforth said representatives from five college groups, the Southeastern Conference, Southwest Conference, Mountain States Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (Big Seven), Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletic Association (Big Six) and Southern Congerence would meet in New Orleans April 18 to consider the proposed "purity" code of the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

The meeting, he said, carries more than routine significance, adding that "civil war is threatened on the N. C. A. A."

The proposal would restrict coaches and athletic staff members to the campus in talking with high school prospects and otherwise limit aid to athletes.

For the first time in history, Danforth said, the five conferences will meet to discuss athletic policy. "Expressions from executives indicate they take a dim view of the feasibility of even the honesty of the recently adopted N. C. A. A. proposals."

Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida and president of the Southeastern Conference confirmed the meeting in a communication to the Journal, Danforth said.

"I have no idea what will be done," the Journal quoted Tigert as saying. "The proposed code of the N. C. A. A. appears unworkable to many of us and our meeting is more or less of a spontaneous movement that may have stemmed originally in the southwest."

From the Southern, Southwestern and Missouri Valley, Danforth added, have come appraisals of the rule restricting coaches and athletic staff members to the campus in talking with high school prospects and "many athletic directors declare the N. C. A. A. 'purity' code a return to days of utter hypocrisy in assisting athletes," Danforth wrote.

He said Dr. Tigert "admitted there was a chance for bloc action if it is discovered the five conferences are of one mind on most of the issues."

In addition, Danforth wrote:

"United front action against the domination of the N. C. A. A. by the Big Nine and the Pacific Coast Conference is in the offing.

"The Big Nine and the Pacific Coast, with the Ivy League tagging along, recently backed a "purity" code that obviously was aimed at the rest of the collegiate athletic world with the Southeastern Conference right in the cross-hairs. The others have agreed in principle.

"Then the Big Nine resumed sniping at the open grants-in-aid given by the Southeastern and proclaimed their own virtue all over again.

"First to break what was supposed to be a truce was Fritz Chrisler, coach of the University of Michigan. Wesley Fesler, who resigned at Pittsburgh to take over the job at Ohio State, was the latest to blast recruiting, institutional aid and scholastic standards of southern colleges.

"Neither of these gentlemen speak from knowledge of what colleges in other sections really do, but from the profound opposite. Their charges would like a replay of old recordings of their predecessors.

MAY LET PITCHERS GO

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 5.—(AP)—Manager Ted Lyons tentatively plans to carry a Chicago White Sox squad of five outfielders, seven infielders, three catchers and 11 pitchers. One or two pitchers currently with the club will go to Hollywood while the others will land at Waterloo, Ia.

JONESVILLE MAY BACK FOOTBALL

Movement Underway To Enter Block High School In State Grid Competition

JONESVILLE, La., April 5.—(Special)—Jonesville's hopes for putting a Block High School football team on the field this fall were strengthened this week as the Catahoula parish school board directed Superintendent of Schools Aubrey Brooks to find out if a capable man could be obtained, how much salary would be demanded and whether or not a parish-wide summer recreation program could be coordinated.

The board acted upon a request made by a committee of Jonesville citizens. Wedon T. Smith, Jonesville attorney, was spokesman for the committee which included W. C. Fairbanks, Dewey Parish, Conrad Pierce, W. C. Brown and Jay Paul Wade.

Smith told the board that the people of Jonesville had indicated their willingness to finance the equipping of a football team and aid in the construction of stadium facilities suitable for night football. He said the committee had been advised by a sporting goods representative that a team could be adequately equipped for approximately $1,800.

The spokesman also told the board that 52 boys at Block High School were of sufficient weight and had indicated their willingness to participate in a football program.

Smith, who is also president of the Jonesville Rotary Club, had received pledges of $100 each from the first six businessmen contacted by the committee. These were Fairbanks, Parish, Brown Brothers Grocers, G. D. Babin, Barney Atkins and Clyde Webber.

Under a plan agreed upon by both members of the board and the committee, an athletic director would be employed for a 10-month period to direct football activities and teach at Block High School. Then, in the summer months, he would be on a parish-wide basis to organize and direct recreation in other parish communities also.

Brooks began seeking applications for the post this week. College officials will be written for recommendations on graduates and well-known state coaches will be contacted in regards to recommending someone for the post. All qualified men are asked to contact Brooks and arrange for an interview.

The superintendent will make a report of his findings at the May board meeting. If the athletic director post is approved, his duties would begin around July 1, it was said.

ROBINSON HURT

HAVANA, April 5.—(AP)—Jackie Robinson, Montreal's Negro first baseman, received a slightly wrenched back and a bruised right elbow in an exhibition baseball game with the Brooklyn Dodgers today when catcher Bruce Edwards slid into him on a play at first.

Todd for a meeting here next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the L. B. Faulk American Legion Home on Forsythe avenue.

The meeting is intended to iron out all matters pertaining to the conduct of the American Legion Junior baseball program in the northeast Louisiana area, including the adoption of a schedule of play and special league rules which are not contained in the legion handbook governing play in the district.

If all details are worked out with satisfaction it will not be necessary to meet again before the season opens somewhere about the middle or latter part of May.

Ten teams have signified intentions to perform in the Fifth District campaign this year. They include Farmerville, Ruston, Monroe-West Monroe, Bastrop, Columbia, Winnsboro, Ferriday, Jonesboro, Rayville, and Delhi.

"For the best interest of all clubs in the district, every team should make arrangements to have its representatives at this meeting on April 13," Todd said last night.

DOUBLE FEATURE ON TUESDAY MAT CARD AT KALLIO'S

Harrell To Face Bull Of The Pampas; Steel Matched With Marco

The newly crowned Louisiana state light heavyweight wrestling champion, Henry Harrell, and a former world's light-heavy champ, Jack "Stinger" Steele, will be on a double main event wrestling program here Tuesday night at Gus Kallio's Arena along with a newcomer, Micguel Torres, the Bull of Pampas, and Johnny Marco, New York Italian.

Harrell, who won the state belt from Allen "Sailor" Parker here last Thursday night, has been matched against Torres, the Argentina brawler making his first showing locally, and Steele will go into action against Marco in a battle of villains.

The state title will not be at stake in the Harrell-Torres match, Promoter Kallio said last night, but the match promises to be one of the best produced here in some time.

"The bull of the Pampas country has invaded the States with a good record behind him," Promoter Kallio said, "and I expect the fans here about will be hearing a lot more about him before long."

Steele, who hasn't shown in the South in many months, rarely since losing the world's title belt to Jack Curtis, will be coming back to tame, if he can, the villainous Johnny Marco.

The New York Italian has won quite a reputation for himself as a villain, and that is an art of the wrestling trade that was mastered by Steele long ago. "The Stinger," from Sioux City, long ruled as the super-villain locally. Right now Kallio's customers are just waiting for some one to come along who can give the brutal New Yorker a good trouncing. It looks like Steele is the man, and even though Steele is widely known as a toughie himself, the fans may be ready to forgive him if he can tame the rowdy Italian.

Both matches will have time limits of an hour and fifteen minutes with two falls to win.

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK, April 5.—(NEA)—Eddie Dyer coming down in front with the Cardinals, Ben Chapman lashing the Phillies along and the White Sox' response to Ted Lyons give pitchers new hope as managers.

There may be some dispute about listing Chapman as a chucker, since he earned his pay at the peak of his career as an outfieder, but the Dodgers salvaged the Birmingham fireball from Richmond of the Piedmont League because Branch Rickey suspected he might be able to get the other side out.

Pitchers who made the grade as major league managers can be counted on the fingers of one hand. When Dyer guided the Red Birds to the world title last fall he became the first pitcher-turned-manager to lead a championship club in the big leagues since Clark Griffith did it with the White Sox the first year the American League was in operation.

Griff narrowly missed repeating in New York in 1904, when Happy Jack Chesbro wild-pitched the Highlanders out of the pennant on the last play of the first half of a doubleheader on the final day.

Dyer and Lyons were Texas college rivals, southpaw Eddie with Rice, personable Ted with Baylor. Much was expected of Dyer when he reported to the St. Louis Nationals, but he bobbed up with a sore arm, qualified as a manager in the minors.

The list of former pitchers who failed as major league managers is not too long since owners long ago learned to shy away from naming them as pilots. Outstanding examples of those who failed are Mathewson, Walter Johnson and Grimes, all great pitchers, to be sure, but their sparkling records as hurlers only tended to make their inability to click as managers all the more glaring.

Bob Shawkey lasted only one season with the Yankees. The Phillies drove Fat Fitzsimmons nuts. There are more examples, but these are typical. Charley Root accomplished little or nothing with the Hollywood Pacific Coast League entry in three campaigns, wound up in the basement the two seasons he directed Columbus of the American Association.

On the other hand, Bill Essick was a stickout minor league manager who was never given an opportunity in the big show, Bill Burwell was outstandingly successful in Louisville and Indianapolis and Tom Sheehan in Minneapolis.

Only once in the 76-year history of the National League has a pitcher managed a pennant-winning outfit. One of the great managers, going all the way back to 1880, Anson, Mutrie, Selee, Chance, Grimm and Terry were first basemen; Hanlon, Clarke and Southworth outfielders; McGraw and McKecknie third basemen; Robinson, Moran and Street catchers, and McCarthy a second baseman.

Back of Griffith's initial winning effort in the American came the catchers, Mack, Carrigan and Cochrane; the third baseman, Jimmy Collins; the shortstops, Jennings and Cronin, and the second basemen, Huggins, Harris and McCarthy.

Why don't pitchers, as a rule, make good managers? Why have splendid performers on the mound made so little headway as strategists? Why couldn't the fiery Burleigh Grimes inject his characteristic I-chose-you and never-say-die spirit into teams he skippered?

There are vastly more pitchers than players of any other positions—five to one, at least.

Baseball students advance various reasons for the general inability of pitchers to get anywhere as handlers of men and clubs. Some contend that the load of daily concentration after they have been accustomed to participating every fourth, fifth or sixth day proves too much.

Others opine pitchers are so concerned about their own careers that they give little or no attention to other operations. The average pitcher is an All-America out. The pitcher's box is a grand spot for a strong arm and a weak mind at that.

Another theory is that pitchers normally give little thought or attention to their club's attack.

Anyway, this undoubtedly goes a long way toward explaining why Eddie Dyer had to wait so many years in the minors, and finally jump to the oil fields, before he was given an opportunity to turn out the outstanding manager's job of 1946.

CUBANS, SPORTS PLAY HERE TODAY

Negro Big League Team Meets Cinderella Sports At Casino Park

The New York Cubans, big league Negro outfit of the Negro National Baseball League, will be in Monroe today for a two-day stand, meeting the Cinderella Sports, Monroe's Negro baseball club, in an exhibition series this afternoon and tomorrow at Casino Park.

Manager Julian Decater of the Sports announced the games would begin at 2:30 o'clock, but the contest today will be preceeded by a parade of Negro sports followers. The parade, ushering in the local Negro baseball season, will begin at 1 o'clock at Fourteenth and Washington streets and proceed to the park.

The Cubans will feature the appearance of Clare Dunay, 220-pound home run king of the Negro baseball world, and Barney Morris, former hurler for the old Monroe Monarchs, once world champions of Negro baseball.

Stars of the Cinderella Sports are George "Marble" Smith, pitcher; Ernest "Turkey" Smith, capable catcher; Herbert Riley, a hard hitting shortstop; George "Rabbit" White, the Sports one-man outfield; and Willie "The Midget" James, colorful second baseman.

TOM BROWN IS HEADING BACK TO DODGER CAMP

HAVANA, April 5.—(AP)—Tom Brown, the 19-year-old Brooklynite whose potential righthanded power makes him a suitable candidate for the No. 5 spot in the Dodger batting order, is out of the service and on his way to the Brooks' Pensacola, Fla., baseball school, it was disclosed here today.

Brown donned Dodger flannels in 1944 at 16. He came up again late in 1945 after spending more time with Newport News in the Piedmont League. Last year he reported to the Dodgers' spring training school at Sanford, Fla., and it was from there that he entered the service.

SEVERAL ROOKIE PITCHERS READY FOR MAJOR PLAY

At Least 30 Newcomers To Major Leagues Ready To Show Stuff On Mound

By Joe Reichler

NEW YORK, April 5.—(AP)—At least 30 brand new pitchers to the major leagues will be making their big league debuts this season after the championship campaign gets under way April 14.

Of this number, about 10 will have won starting berths, the rest to be used either in relief roles or else groomed for regular berths later on in the season.

From observations in the spring training camps, right-handers Eddie Erautt of the Cincinnati Reds, Bill Ayers of the New York Giants, and Don Johnson of the New York Yankees and lefthander Art Houtteman, Detroit Tigers, look like the best bets among the rookie hurlers. A step behind this quartet come Fred Sanford, St. Louis Browns; Tommy Fine and Mel Parnell, Boston Red Sox, and Larry Jansen, Giants.

Erautt, a brother of Joe Erautt, rookie catcher of the Tigers, impressed veteran onlookers with his poise and fine assortment of pitching tricks at the Reds training camp at Tampa, Fla. The 22-year-old native of Portland, Ore., who led the Pacific Coast League in strikeouts and shutouts last year while winning 20 games for Hollywood, is counted upon as one of the big four by freshman manager Johnny Neun. A well-built six-footer, Erautt owns a blazing fast ball which he mixes with a deceiving change of pace.

Johnson ,a fast baller with a great deal of confidence, who hails from Erautt's home town, is the apple of Yankee Manager Bucky Harris' eye. Not only does the former boy manager believe that Johnson will be a winner with the Yankees this year, but is of the opinion that the 20-year-old youth will some day be the club's number one pitcher.

SPORTS ROUND UP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, April 5.—(AP)—The Standford University golfers, who won the National Collegiate A. A. team title last spring at considerable expense to themselves, probably are thinking about hiring a wrestling coach from Oklahoma and going to the mat with the University's athletic department .... It cost the boys over $500 apiece out of their own pockets last year for the eastern trip and indications are they'll have to pay their own way again if they're going to defend the title at Ann Arbor, Mich., in June .... A communique from Golfer Bob Cardinal reports the team has lost only one man, Frank McCann, and has been reinforced by veteran Bob Rosecrance and a freshman from Nebraska. Bob Crozier, "who cracks out a 69 every once in a while." ... He adds that the boys probably wouldn't go back to the NCAA meet if there wasn't a championship to defend and if four men weren't playing their last year of college golf; they'd swing out into other tourneys instead .... Of course, expense troubles are nothing new. Michigan's swimmers had to pay their own way to the A. A. U. swimming meet this week-end and Detroit writers say its the result of a long standing feud that has to do with the A. A. U.'s lack of interest in football.

Today's Guest Star

Joe Gootter, Paterson, N. J., Evening News: "The Chicago White Sox have five players ranging from 38 to 42 years of age on the team this year .... White Sox, grey tops."

Readin' and Writin'

Morris A. Beall's scholarly history of the Washington Senators, just received here, reveals such forgotten facts as that U. S. Grant was the first President of the United States to see a professional baseball game, (it was in 1870 and Washington lost) and that Roger Bresnahan, later famous as a catcher, made his national league debut as a 17-year-old Washington pitcher in 1897. He led the loop in both pitching and hitting but the club owners wouldn't raise his $900 salary the next season. Washington hasn't changed much.

VOLLEY BALL TOURNEY CONTENDERS TO MEET

A meeting of teams planning to enter the parish volley ball tournament next Saturday, will be held Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock at the Monroe Recreation Center, it was announced yesterday.

All entries should be filed not later than the Tuesday meeting at which time pairings for the event to be held on the Crosley Grammar School campus in West Monroe will be made.

It was declared last night, however, that if next Saturday proved too windy that the meet would be postponed until the following weekend.

THREE WEAK SPOTS SEEN IN CHICAGO CUBS LINEUP

DALLAS, Tex., April 5.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs' weakest spots on offense seem to be at shortstop, where Len Merullo is hitting an anemic .160; second base, where Don Johnson has notched .239, and catching, where Clyde McCullough also is far below par.

However, Manager Charley Grimm can get solace from the batting of six other regulars—Andy Pafko's .412, Eddie Waitkus' .377, Phil Cavarretta's .362, Bill Nicholson's .352, Stan Hack's .343 and Marv Rickert's .377.

WORKOUTS SLATED FOR NATIONAL GUARD TEAM

The Louisiana National Guard softball team of Monroe, to be sponsored by Guerriero Insurance Company and compete in the City League, will workout on the Neville High School diamond each Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock, until the season opens.

Lt. Albert L. Kay, manager of the team, has declared the club is talent hunting and anyone interested in trying out for the Legion club is invited to attend the workouts.

OLE MISS WHIPS ALABAMA, 2 TO 1

Rebs Squeeze In Ahead Of Rain For Two Runs In Fifth And Victory

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 5.—(AP)—In a game twice delayed by rain, Ole Miss took a 2-1 ball game from Alabama's Tide here today, scoring twice in the fifth in a contest abbreviated by a heavy downpour less than a half-inning later.

The Rebs barely got in under the wire themselves, with 'Bama leading 1-0 into the last side of the fifth and with the home team striving to beat a shower and get in ahead at one and the same time.

Ole Miss won on a pair of bobbles by Jack Rutledge, tide short-fielder, and doubles by Charley McCool and Ervin Thibault. 'Bama scored its marker in the fifth on hits by D' Joe Gambrell, John McCollum and Hugh Morrow.

Blackie Bellis for Alabama and Ray Oole gave up six hits apiece in the opening conference contest for both clubs. Rain yesterday forced the two teams into a header program today, but they were lucky to get in five frames.

Best play of the game was Thibault's throw home in Roy Johnson's third frame single to erase Jennings Byrd, with Russ Reid completing the play.

Score by innings:

Alabama	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	1

TRUMAN

given up hope of settling this dispute. We hope that as the deadline approaches the realization of what the strike will mean to the workers, to the companies and to the public will lead both sides to open their minds and to take more reasonable positions than they have so far."

The labor department planned to go ahead with its conciliation talks far into the night.

Meanwhile President Truman withheld any action toward seizing the telephone lines.

Beirne had said earlier that the Monday strike "still seems inevitable." He called the negotiations at mid-afternoon "a comedy, a farce."

The N. F. T. W. said 340,000 phone workers will abandon switchboards and stations Monday at 6 a. m. in each time zone unless a settlement is reached on demands for a $12 weekly pay raise, union shop and other concessions. Government statistics say telephone workers now average $43.19 a week.

Beirne disclosed the newest government move. He said labor department officials had asked him to outline the terms on which the N. F. T. W. would be willing to submit the entire dispute to arbitration.

"It seems to me," Beirne told newsmen, "that a discussion of arbitration with N. F. T. W. now represents a clear and complete breakdown of the local negotiations."

So far negotiations have been conducted in 30 cities across the nation between American Telephone and Telegraph Company subsidiaries and 39 N. F. T. W.-affiliated unions. A. T. & T., parent firm of the Bell system, has refused to bargain nationally. It contends separate agreements should be made to meet local conditions.

The labor department's talk about industry-wide arbitration at this time —with the strike deadline less than 48 hours away—indicated to him, Beirne said, that the local negotiations have "collapsed."

Beirne reported that he told Schwellenbach the N. F. T. W. is willing to consider "any concrete proposal" for an industry-wide settlement, including arbitration.

No statement was forthcoming from company officials on the trend of the negotiations.

Schwellenbach reportedly talked with C. F. Craig, A. T. & T. vice-president. Earlier John W. Gibson, assistant secretary of labor, talked separately with Craig and Beirne.

It appeared likely that Mr. Truman might wait until the last minute, or after a strike develops, before exercising seizure powers under the federal communications act.

In the event he orders seizure, the army or navy probably would be called upon to manage the far-flung industry, with its 105,307,000 miles of line, until the dispute is settled.

Two sets of negotiations continued here without sign of appreciable progress on principal issues. One concerned the Bell system long distance operations, the other its affiliated Southern Bell Telephone Company.

Government conciliation efforts seemed to be concentrated on the talks between labor department officials and top N. F. T. W. and Bell system leaders.

The conciliators admitted the outlook looked "grave" with time running out so fast and with so many differences yet to be solved.

The N. F. T. W. disclosed that it had received replies from a majority of A. T. & T. affiliates saying the firms would do what they could to maintain emergency phone service with available workers during a strike.

This was in reply to a union offer to staff strike-bound exchanges with union workers to provide essential service for police, fire departments, hospitals and similar types of users.

"This indicates to us," Beirne said in a statement, "that the Bell system is not interested in maintaining adequate emergency service. It also shows that a uniform Bell system policy is being followed.

"This is another example of their utter disregard for their responsibility to the public. Beginning at 6 a. m. Monday, if we have to strike, anything that happens as a result of company failure to provide emergency service is something over which the union has no control. It rests entirely with the company."

CALL FOR STRIKE IS RECEIVED BY UNION

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 5.—(AP)—A strike call directing 5,000 union workers of the Southern Bell Telephone Company in Oklahoma to go out at 6 a. m. (E. S. T.) Monday has just been received, J. D. Bird, Oklahoma City general strike chairman said today.

"This is it. A week ago we thought some agreement might be reached and we would not be forced to go out," Bird said.

"But now it looks like the strike is definitely on."

Other union leaders, who explained the union workers had been told until now just "to get ready" and await the call echoed Bird's views.

EXPECTS SOUTHERN WORKERS TO STRIKE

ATLANTA, April 5.—(AP)—Chief Negotiator A. T. Jones of the Southern Federation of Telephone Workers said tonight that barring government intervention and unless "there is a substantial clearing up of the situation" Southern Bell Telephone Company workers would strike at 6 a. m. Monday.

The strike would affect 42,000 workers in nine southern states, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

The principal issue is the union's demand for a $12 basic increase weekly and a narrowing of regional wage differentials. Jones said the union had broken off negotiations today after the company had failed to make any offer.

He said, however, that the union had notified the U. S. Conciliation Service that it would be on call to resume negotiations if there was any prospect of reaching an agreement.

Meanwhile the Southern Bell Telephone Company made preparations for emergency service should the industry-wide strike materialize Monday.

Officials said they, with any employes who report for work, would operate the switchboards and urged that calls be limited to emergency messages only.

The Southern Federation of Telephone Workers offered to provide skeleton forces to handle emergency calls, but said the company declined the offer.

The union, in a statement today, said it was prepared to tie-up service in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee at the appointed time.

The union is asking wage increases ranging from $15 to $20 per week. The company has said it would be unable to pay the wages asked without a substantial increase in rates.

Southern Bell said today that in event of a strike service on manually operated switchboards and long distance service would be on an essential basis only. Press association news wires are expected to be maintained.

HIGHLIGHTS

* * *. It is significant that the most pessimistic cries of calamity came from men who had little confidence in our American system of free enterprise. They were wrong in their predictions.

It is necessary that we maintain sufficient military strength to convince the world that we intend to meet our responsibilities.

As we appraise our domestice scene * * * we are viewing a panorama of prosperity—such prosperity as no generation of Americans before us ever experienced.

I am happy to be able to say tonight that for the present fiscal year 1947 we shall balance the budget and we shall have a surplus.

Any substantial reduction of the 1948 federal budget, as submitted to the Congress, must be clearly understood by the American people as a venture into false economy.

We, as a nation, are now having prosperous years. This is the time when we must start paying off the (national) debt in earnest.

It would be extremely short-sighted to cut down the federal revenue without making a real effort toward debt reduction.

At a proper time I will support tax reduction and tax readjustment designed to reduce the burden and to adjust that burden to the needs of a peace-time economy.

I must express to you my deep concern over the level of prices prevailing today. * * * These prices must be brought down if our entire economy is not to suffer.

The world looks to us for leadership. The force of events makes it necessary that we assume that role.

reached on some 245 items. There are still 15 items in dispue and 40 items pending on which bargaining is under way. The area of disagreement between the company and the union has been narrowed considerably.

"The company has done everything within reason to facilitate agreement on the remaining issues involved and thereby spare the public the grave consequence of a telephone strike.

"We have offered the union leaders a renewal of our present liberal contract. This they have rejected.

"We have offered to arbitrate the matter of telephone wages and to renew our contract until such arbitration can take place. This offer, too, has been rejected, placing the responsibility for the strike—with its inevitable harm to everyone—squarely where it belongs—on the heads of the union leaders.

"Such a strike, threatening the health, safety and the business activities of millions of people, doesn't make sense.

"Telephone employees wage rates today are not only the highest in history but they have been increased 75 percent since January, 1941. In 1945 and 1946, wage increases granted our people in nine southern states amounted to $26 million annually. These are increases in wage rates and do not include other millions of dollars in regular, progressive "merit" raises given our employees.

"A 5-day, 40 hour week is the basis work period. Non-supervisory employees, such as operators, linemen, installers and repairmen, receive overtime pay for work beyond eight hours a day or 40 hours a week, and also receive premium pay for Sunday, holiday, evening and night work.

"There are other advantages of working for the Telephone company. These include steady work, good working conditions, holidays with pay, vacations with pay, (one, two or three weeks depending on the lengh of service), sickness and death benefits and pensions with full cost paid by the company.

"The demands made by the union are such that it appears they were formulated in a way to discourage an agreement or that those who originated them had no knowledge or concern as to the effect that a strike would have on the social and business life of the whole country. Neither did they take into account the amount the public must pay in telephone rates to support wage rates fantastically out of line with those paid and received by our customers.

"The union demands on wages and other matters would increase the cost of providing telephone service by about $69,000,000 a year, which amounts to 70 percent of the company's wage payments in 1946. This would make our payroll alone over $2 million more than the total of all the money we took in last year. In terms of the average telephone bill, it amounts to an increase of about $3.20 for every one of the more than 1,731,000 telephone subscribers we serve in nine southern states.

"The earnings of Southern Bell are such that we have found it necessary to ask the State Public Service Commissions for increases in telephone rates to help meet the costs of wage increases granted to our employees last year and in 1945. Some of the commissions have the matter under advisement at this time. Should present negotiations with the union result in further large wage increases, we must immediately seek additional telephone rate increases to meet the increase in expenses. We cannot expect public acceptance of telephone service rates based upon employees wage rates far above the level of wages which telephone subscribers themselves pay and receive.

"The union leadership has demanded that the wages and certain other bargaining matters for Southern Bell employees be passed on by a National Union committee remote from the scene rather than by officers of the Southern Federation of Telephone Workers with whom our contract has been signed. Southern Bell, of course, is willing to bargain with any properly appointed representative of the union, but firmly believes that the wages of its employees paid for by Southern Bell customers, should be settled through negotiations right here in the south, and not in another section of the nation.

"A telephone strike is a serious and dangerous thing. The company recognizes and accepts the fact that it is the first duty of the company and its employees alike to render uninterrupted service. We have appealed to Southern Bell employees to stay on the job and provide the service which is so vital to the public health and welfare. If a strike occurs, Southern Bell will do all within its power to assure the continuity of telephone service.

"Management and those other employees who come to work will operate the switchboards to handle emergency calls and to perform other essential services. In order that essential calls can go through promptly, the public is requested to limit its calls to those of an emergency nature. Both local calls for manually operated telephones and long distance calls will be affected in this respect. Dial calls to manual telephones and to "operator" for service assistance will also be affected, but otherwise dial service is expected to function normally.

"The other operations of the company which are essential to service will be carried forward to the broadest extent possible through the services of the personnel available."

$2,400 MINIMUM FOR TEACHERS IS SOUGHT

NEW ORLEANS, April 5.—(AP)—The Louisiana State Federation of Labor, meeting in Baton Rouge Monday, will be asked to endorse a minimum salary schedule of $2,400 for Louisiana teachers. Miss Mary Theresa Elam, president of the New Orleans Classroom Teachers Federation, said here today.

She said the executive board of the Louisiana Federation of Teachers has adopted a resolution favoring salary ranging from $2,400 to $3,800.

"If the resolution is endorsed at the state convention of A. F. of L. members, it will be presented to the state legislature in the 1948 session," Miss Elam said.

KRUG

could probably be used against us later on if accidents occur."

The upshot of all these developments was uncertainty over what the miners will do Monday when their six-day "mourning" work stoppage officially ends, and the prospect that many mines may remain closed.

Krug turned down Lewis' request that all but of the government's mines be closed after a huddle with aides which lasted all afternoon.

The rejection was sent to Lewis in a letter from Navy Captain N. H. Collisson, coal mines administrator under Krug's supervision.

Collisson wrote:

"I have carefully considered your request and am unable to agree that I should follow the arbitrary procedure of closing down the entire soft coal industry when the Krug-Lewis agreement provides a means by which the union may guard against working in unsafe mines."

Lewis and Krug carry on their dealings through Collisson. They have no direct dealings since the government forced Lewis and his United Mine Workers last December to end their strike.

Collisson told Lewis he wanted to emphasize that the mine safety committees of local unions have power under the Krug-Lewis agreement of last May 29 to withdraw the men from any mine if they consider it to be so unsafe as to present an "imminent danger."

Lewis told a congressional committee Thursday that the local committees had been "intimated" by the federal court decision blocking the strike and also by the threat of prosecution under the Smith-Connally act which prohibits strikes in plants operated by the government.

Lewis made a sudden request of the government earlier today to order the indefinite closing of all but two of the 2,531 bituminous mines it operates.

He said he made the request in behalf of the miners "whose lives are endangered" by working conditions. It raised the question how many of the miners will go back to work Monday.

this road and a second group of 100 raced in from the east, followed by two waves of 100 each.

The first shot from the diversionary force on the north was heard at 12:20 a. m. The others penetrated the dump and began loading an undetermined number of artillery shells onto pack mules.

Fleeing with their loads, the Communists exploded parts of the dump, which was defended by a guard company of the Fifth regiment under Capt. Emil Radic of Hightstown, N. J.

Alerted by the explosions and gunfire, another company quickly came up by rail from Tangku, five miles east of Hsinho, and leaped into weapons carriers to reach the scene of battle.

The lead vehicle was halted by land mines laid by the Communists. While temporarily stalled, the vehicles were subjected to heavy rifle fire from an ambush beside the road. Eight marines were wounded in this engagement.

After the reinforcements arrived, the two marine companies fought off the attackers and pursued them five miles north, halting at dawn.

Four hundred Chinese government troops abroad an armored train arrived from Tientsin at 8 a. m. and took up the pursuit.

A marine observation plane spotted the fleeing Communists about noon and reported that they were carrying many stretchers.

Fourteen of the wounded marines were flown to Tientsin. The two others received first aid and stayed on the spot. Names were withheld.

Colonel Frisbie flew from Peiping to take command on the marine convoy and Adm. Charles M. Cooke, Jr., U. S. naval commandant in the Western Pacific, flew from Tsingtao to confer with Maj. Gen. Samual Howard, commandant of the First Marine division.

Some accounts said the marines sent two light tanks to the defense but that one was damaged and both were stopped by Communist mines.

The raid was the second on the Hsinho installation. On October 3, about 200 Communists wounded one marine and carried off a quantity of ammunition at a cost of several dead.

Communists ambushed a marine convoy on the road between Tientsin and Peiping July 29, killing three marines outright, wounding one fatally and injuring 12 others. There have been repeated minor clashes involving casualties.

Two U. S. army officers have been held prisoner by the Communists in Manchuria since March 1.

Next Tuesday 369 Americans from the disbanded truce headquarters are due to go from Peiping to Tangku by train for shipment home. American officials said there was no intention to change these plans.

About 8,000 to 10,000 marines remain in China, most of them at the naval base of Tsingtao.

PROMISES

Robert E. Hannegan, the national party chairman, threw Truman's hat into the ring for 1948.

Mr. Truman, while saying nothing about his plans for the next election, set forth his stand on the prime domestic issues of taxes, spending and prices.

He used the occasion, also, to amplify his doctrine of "aiding those peoples whose freedoms are endangered by foreign pressure," declared that "our foreign policy must not be wrecked on the rocks of partisanship," and commended both Democrats and Republicans who have supported it.

"We, like Jefferson, have witnessed atrocious violations of the rights of nations," he said.

"We, too, have regarded them as occasions not to be slighted.

"We, too, have declared our protest."

The president did not mention Russia directly, but he significantly compared his present course to that of President Monroe, whose Monroe Doctrine was aimed partly at Russian claims in Alaska.

Neither did he refer to the Republicans by name, but he lashed out at the economies they have voted and their plans for tax reduction now. Mr. Truman said, however, that he will support tax reduction "at a proper time."

He spoke before some 2,000 party bigwigs at a $100-a-plate Jefferson day dinner.

In the first official administration announcement that a balanced budget is in sight by July 1, the president said "now we have worked our way into the black."

"I am happy to be able to say tonight," he continued, "that for the year 1947 we shall balance the budget and we shall have a surplus."

The president had not one word to say about his own intentions for 1948 but party leaders made no secret of their belief that it was the 1948 standard-bearer speaking.

Expressing determination "that stringent economy shall govern all peacetime operations of the government," the president said the $37,500,000,000 budget he submitted to congress "marked the borderline beyond which we could not reduce the activities of our government without entering the area of false economy."

"Any substantial reduction of the 1948 federal budget, as submitted to the congress, must be clearly understood by the American people as a venture into false economy," he continued.

"To the extent that we countenance any such reduction, we shall weaken our own house by our refusal to keep it in basic repair. At best, this is poor judgment. At worst, it is an invitation to disaster."

Standing firm against Republican efforts in congress to cut income taxes by 20 and 30 percent now, the president declared:

"When the people, through their government, owe a lot of money—as we do today—it is the course of wisdom to make payment on our debt. It would be extremely shortsighted to cut down the federal revenue without making a real effort toward debt reduction.

"I recognize, frankly, that the present burden of taxation on our people is too heavy to be considered as permanent, and at a proper time I will support tax reduction and tax readjustment designed to reduce the burden and to adjust that burden to the needs of a peacetime economy."

In apparent reference to his proposal for financial and limited military aid to Greece and Turkey to resist communism, the president declared that "in supporting the United Nations we must, when necessary, supplement its activities."

"By aiding free nations to maintain their freedom we strengthen the United Nations in the performance of its functions," he said.

"We must take a positive stand. It is no longer enough merely to say 'We don't want war.' We must act in time—ahead of time—to stamp out the smoldering beginnings of any conflict that may threaten to spread throughout the world."

Then he gave this summary of how "the fire" of war starts:

"We have seen it before—aggression by the strong against the weak, openly by the use of armed force and secretly by infiltration. We know how the fire spreads. And we know how it ends."

He said it is the responsibility of the United States to stand guard before the United Nations, "the edifice of lasting peace."

The United Nations, he said, must "quench the flames wherever they may break out," even "if armed conflict must be prevented by the use of an international police force."

He commended "the efforts of those members of both parties" who have supported American foreign policy which, he said, transcends in importance "any other question confronting us."

"It would be fatal if it were to become the subject of narrow political consideration," Mr. Truman said. "Our foreign policy must not be wrecked on the rocks of partisanship."

He said the United States must maintain a military power commensurate with its responsibilities and this requires a "sound domestic economy."

He said that the administration cut expenditures to $64,000,000,000 in the 1946 fiscal year, to $42,000,000,000 this fiscal year, and plans to spend $37,500,000,000 for the 1948 year beginning July 1. This new budget he said, is the borderline, that curtailment of services below it would cost all taxpayers "more than the reduction in costs that appeared on the surface."

He said it would be wasting money to abandon reclamation, soil conservation, forest preservation and development of water resources, as well as to cease vigilance along the borders and at ports of entry. He also held it "false economy" to reduce the staff that audits tax returns, or settles labor disputes and added:

"If we cut down the effectiveness of our armed forces, we run the risk of wasting both money and lives."

The House already has voted reductions in some of these items.

The nation, the president continued, must begin the long process of reducing the public debt which represntes a large part of the cost of winning the war, and amounts to almost $2,000 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

"We, as a nation, are now having prosperous years. This is the time when we must start paying off the debt in earnest. When a man is earning good wages, and at the same time owes a lot of money, he is wise if he uses his excess income to pay off his debts. He would be shortsighted if he cut his income just because he was not spending it all at the moment. When the people, through their government, owe a lot of money—as we do today—it is the house of wisdom to make payment on our debt. It would be extremely shortsighted to cut down the federal revenue without making a real effort toward debt reduction."

The president reiterated his concern "over the level of prices prevailing today," and said "these prices must be brought down if our entire economy is not to suffer."

Noting that all but a few price controls have been removed, he charged all citizens with responsibility "of not going whole hog for profits," asserting the alternative "is inflation, industry priced out of the market and eventually, men priced out of their jobs."

The president said that the force of events makes it necessary that the United States assume world leadership although the process is a "difficult and painful one" and "the cost is necessarily great."

But he said that the nation would do so because of its great heritage of spirit and character.

"We are the people who gave to the world, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt," he continued.

"We are a people who not only cherish freedom and defend it, if need be with our lives, but who also recognize the right of other men and other nations to share it."

tidal basin were not expected to bloom until next week but some 150,000 Easter tourists jammed the city.

Seattle's site for a sunrise service was at Volunteer Park, one of the highest points of the city.

Atlanta's Grant Field stadium anticipated 10,000 worshippers, and those famous Georgia peach trees, in full bloom, were ready for the scrutiny of motorists.

Old New Orleans planned a street parade of floats and the Carrollton Carnival club, a Mardi Gras society, was to play host to 7,500 orphans.

Moravians, joined by thousands from other denominations, arranged the 175th annual Easter sunrise observance at Winston-Salem, N. C.

Charleston, West Va., chose the esplanade of the state captiol facing the Kanawha river for its sunrise service.

Baltimore stadium was the scene of another sun-up observance.

Fredericksburg, Tex., planned to continue a custom practiced there for 101 years, the lighting of Easter fires in the hills about the town. Children are told Easter bunnies light the fires to dye vari-colored eggs.

In every city the great cathedrals and churches, bedecked with fragrant Easter flowers, scheduled services.

Another sure harbinger of the Easter season appeared yesterday in New York when a line of elephants trekked ponderously through the streets to Madison Square Garden, traditional first stop in the circus' annual tour.

Boyle's Notebook

By Hal Boyle

KILL DEVIL HILL, N. C., April 5.—(AP)—The airplane has made a bigger impression on the outer world than it did in the sand dune country where it was born.

The Wright brothers ushered in the air era here 43 years ago last December 17, but some people along the sea coast still think it was a crazy idea.

They feel that the whole experiment was a big mistake. They laughed and shook their heads then. They don't laugh now, but some still shake their heads.

Only two men are living of the small volunteer crew of coast guardsmen and Hangerson who helped the "mad brothers" from Dayton, O., wheel their flimsy boxkite contraption into position for the takeoff—a flibberty flight of a few seconds that changed war and peace forever.

Captain John R. Daniel, of the coast guard, is old, feeble and retired. Johnny Moore, a young duckhunter who gave aviation one muscular push and forgot it, is an elderly fisherman who still lives over the dunes in a frame house set in a small clearing.

Johnny has a large family. When folks ask him how many children he has, he answers:

"Can't say for sure till I burn off the bresh 'roun' the house."

His proudest moment came when President Hoover, visiting the natal sites of American airpower, said to him musingly:

"So you are little Johnny Moore."

Residents of the nearby villages of Kitty Hawk and Manteo thought so little of the possibility of men ever flying that none accepted the Wrights' invitation to attend the 1903 demonstration. No newspapermen were present.

Miffed, the brothers tried to ban reporters from their next trials here in May, 1908, but several newsmen watched from dunes a half-mile away. Public interest had risen.

When one English reporter tried to hold the only telegraph wire out of Manteo by having the telegrapher send pages torn from a magazine, another reporter threatened to brain him with a chair. The reporters sent their copy in turn after that.

Byron Newton, later assistant secretary of the treasury, was specially assigned to the story by the publisher of the New York Herald. When Newton conscientiously reported for several days running that the Wright machine was flying successfully he was suspended for six weeks without pay for "faking."

The disbelieving Cleveland Leader wired another correspondent:

"Cut out wild cat stuff."

Wilbur Wright, himself unaware of how fast aviation would grow, told a correspondent that in his opinion no machine could ever be made to fly across the ocean until something better than a gasoline engine was developed to drive it. A little boy named Charles Lindbergh wasn't old enough to refute him then.

Telegrapher Alpheus W. Drinkwater, 71, who still has the "bug" with which he sent out the news of the Wright flights in 1908, shares his wife's doubt about the airplane.

"I think it was a pity it was ever invented," said Mrs. Drinkwater, who has never been in one.

"Well, it has done some good," said Alph, who dislikes flying although he has been up a few times.

"Yes, but we could have done without it," replied Mrs. Drinkwater, and took up her tatting.

MEANS TELLS OF OAK RIDGE

Visitor To Monroe Describes Features In Tennessee City

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Means, two daughters Ann and Sue, and son, John Marshall Means, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. Ray Pauley in Monroe.

They made the trip from their home in Oak Ridge, Tenn. for a short Easter visit with relatives. Mrs. Means being sister of Mr. Pauley.

Mr. Means, holding an important position in the suddenly famous town known internationally as the birthplace of the atomic bomb, stated that caution has to be observed at the city limits to insure that no unwanted persons enter in an effort to learn secrets.

The city has now more than 40,000 people and during the war had fully 100,000, he stated. The city is built in the midst of the 56,000 acres that the government owns or controls. The downtown section comprises stores such as most cities possess, even one or two chain stores. Housing problems are largely solved by the government which has erected pre-fabricated structures to care for its employes.

Asked as to educational facilities and he said that there are good schools and also what is called the second largest junior high school in the country. Teachers secure their posts through civil service tests.

One thing, Mr. Means stated, makes Oak Ridge people proud. That is that in two years there has not been a traffic fatility, which is almost an unprecedented record when the population and the hastily created community is taken into consideration.

Each week a government-operated newspaper, the Journal, is circulated free of charge and is quite a creditable sheet.

Another unusual feature lies in the fact that there is no undertake. Mr. Means stated that there were barely any deaths and that if they occured, undertakers from other towns came in to take charge of cases.

The trip held charm for the Means family as they had never seen the Mississippi river until this trip although they had travelled extensively throughout the east.

Asked about the atomic bomb and its use, Mr. Means said that people working in Holly Ridge do not think of it as a means of human destruction but that rather as a great jump ahead in science which will be utilized for commercial and non-destructive purposes.

'HOLY CITY' TO BE PRESENTED

First Baptist Church To Have Sacred Cantata Tonight

"The Holy City," a sacred cantata by Alfred Gaul, will be presented by the chorus choir of the First Baptist Church, under the direction of B. B. Fields, Sunday evening, April 6, beginning at 7 o'clock in the main auditorium.

The first part of the "Holy City" was suggested by the passages of Scripture, "Here have we no continuing city," "Thy Kingdom come," and sets forth the desire for a higher life, as expressed in the words, "My soul is athirst for God," which desire is followed by other passages expressive of the perfection of the higher life, such as "Eye hath not seen."

The second part was suggested by the word, "I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away," thus realizing the desire and promises contained in the first part. With the exception of two hymns, a verse from Milton, and three verses from the Te Deum, the words are entirely Scriptural.

The soloists and those who have special parts are as follows:

Mrs. Ronnie Bounds, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Miss Jean Dozier, Mrs J. W. Goodwin, Mrs Birdie Brothers, Miss Billie Farque, Mrs. Lloyd Walters, Dale Martha, Lloyd Walters, Jacque Norman, tenor soloist from Ruston, La., B. B. Fields.

The accompanists are as follows:

Mrs. B. D. Albritton, organist; Mrs. W. P. Grant, violinist; Alta C. Faircloth, pianist.

The public is cordially invited.

KNIGHTS ARE TO ATTEND SERVICE

Knights Templar will hold the annual service at Gordon Avenue Methodist church, today at 11 a. m. As usual they will come attired in their uniforms and will listen to a sermon delivered by Rev. W. H. Carroll, pastor.

A cordial invitation is extended by this church to all families of Knights Templar to attend this service.

THE NATION TODAY
By James Marlow

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP)—Here's an ABC on the threatened telephone strike.

A strike—the call was issued for 6 a.m., Monday—would hurt most the long-distance and toll systems.

Dial systems, being mechanical, could keep on going a while before a breakdown.

Attorney-General Clark says the government has authority to seize the telephones. Maybe it will. Maybe not.

The dispute: Between a number of unions and a number of companies.

Demands by the union: Pay raises and other things.

Biggest stumbling block: The wage demands.

The unions have sought a nation-wide settlement to make pay more equal everywhere.

The companies have held out for a company-by-company settlement so each company's agreement would fit its own local conditions.

Directly involved in the threatened walkout: About 337,000 of this country's 550,000 unionized telephone workers.

Other thousands of union telephone workers, not striking themselves, could help the strikers by refusing to go to work through picket lines.

The workers, mostly women, include operators, maintenance men, and so on.

The two sides in the dispute:

1. The Bell System's 23 companies and some independent companies. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company is parent of the Bell System.

2. The National Federation of Telephone Workers, an independent union, and some unions not connected with NFTW.

The talks between the unions and the companies began last January. Briefly, these have been the union's demands:

1. A minimum increase of $12 a week everywhere.

2. More than $12 a week in some places to make pay more equal everywhere; a union shop (anyone hired must join the union), and so on.

The company says the average weekly pay of telephone workers is $46.21. The unions say it's $44.10.

In rough outline, here are the two arguments:

The unions—

Telephone workers are paid much less than workers in other industries and raises are needed to meet higher living costs.

The companies—

1. When you remember so many telephone workers are women, their pay is comparable to that in other industries.

2. Making the pay of workers everywhere more equal would mean, not a $12 increase, but in some places an increase of as much as $31 weekly.

Through the weeks of talks, this has been the companies' stand:

1. On everything but wages, let's keep talking to reach a settlement.

2. Let's turn the wage problem over to an arbitrator (an outside party), provided he judges the wage demands on the basis of wages paid in various communities for work similar to telephone work.

As the strike deadline drew near, the unions wanted no part of the companies' area-by-area arbitration proposal but were willing to arbitrate on a national basis.

The NFTW has 49 unions and claims a membership of 336,000. Thirty-nine of those unions, or all but ten, threatened the strike. They have a membership of 287,000.

(The contracts of those 39 have expired. Those of the other ten will stay in effect some time. That's why they made no strike threat.

(But the 49,000 members of the ten non-striking unions, according to NFTW hopes, would not cross picket lines of the 39 unions' 287,000.)

In unions not connected with NFTW about 50,000 workers have been making similar demands.

So, besides its own 287,000 people ready to go out Monday, NFTW looked to the other 50,000 non-NFTW workers to join them.

MONROE MAN GIVEN BRITISH WAR MEDAL

The military medal of Great Britain has been conferred by King George of England, upon Bernard Van, Monroe, for commendable action against the enemy in Europe during World War II, according to information received here yesterday from the War department by the soldier's mother, Mrs. F. T. Van Sr., 3112 Lee avenue.

The war department's announcement to Van was:

"The war department has been informed that his Majesty, the King of England, has conferred upon you the Military Medal. Your acceptance of this award has been approved and made a matter of official record. Pending receipt of the insignia, you are authorized to wear the ribbon representing this award."

The incident for which King George commended Van occurred February 28, 1945, near Hodgen, Germany, and the citation was as follows:

"Staff Sergeant Bernard Van, then a private, upon seeing his squad leader wounded by enemy fire, immediately assumed command of his unit and worked his way forward to an advantage point where he could bring fire upon the enemy.

"From there Staff Sergeant Van delivered an accurate volume of fire upon the crews of two enemy machine guns, pinning them to the ground. This enabled a rifle grenader to advance and neutralize the weapons. Staff Sergeant Van's actions contributed materially to the capture of 32 of the enemy."

Van, who also won the bronze star and silver star and suffered a minor wound in the Normandy invasion, was employed here as a city electrician after his discharge until about two weeks ago when he went to Shreveport where he is now doing electrical work.

TODAY CHARTER DAY FOR LODGE

Princes Of Syracuse To Meet Today; Prizes To Be Given

Thirty-four youths, charter members of the local Palace of the Princes of Syracuse, met at the Pythian Hall last Tuesday night and completed the by-laws for the new Palace being formed here. The Syracusan organization is being sponsored by the Pythian orders in Monroe, and is open to boys of good moral character between the ages of 14 and 20.

Forty-one boys have signed the charter application and 45 members of the Knights of Pythias have affiliated with the junior fraternal order as associate members. It is expected that the names of more than 50 youngsters will appear on the charter list after the meeting this afternoon.

Today has been designated as "Charter Day" by the Syracusan group and is the final opportunity for teenage young men to become charter members of the Palace. The by-laws are to be read and approved, and the names of the Knights selected as members of the governor's council will be announced. Also, plans will be made for the election of officers just as soon as the charter and essential regalia are received from the supreme Palace.

At the meeting called for 2:00 p.m. today, prizes will be awarded to the boy bringing in the most new members, and to the one submitting the accepted name for the new Palace. All youths should attend the meeting today and bring their initiation fee, if the required amount has not yet been paid.

All Syracusans and others interested in this junior lodge, are urged to bring prospective new members today, inasmuch as this will be the last chance for the young men to sign the charter application.

PRELUDE TO A PERMANENT PEACE

Army Day—April 7—is of great importance to every peace-loving American. It proclaims our determination, as a nation, to remain a power for peace. It offers to us, as individuals, opportunities to share in this vital cause.

Preparing the way for permanent peace calls for strong men and strong nations. It is imperative that America retain certain basic military forces until international co-operation and understanding can be assured.

Our War Department offers four ways in which you may serve. It may be either in the Regular Army, the National Guard of the United States, the Organized Reserve Corps, or the Reserve Officers Training Corps. Only when these have been built up to full peacetime strength will this nation be afforded an adequate degree of protection.

On Army Day you will have a chance to review these great military organizations. You will see young men who are making known through action their determination for sound and lasting peace. You can do your part by supporting their vital program in your community.

The voices of spring mingle with the poignantly sweet voices of children this Easter Sunday. The sweetest voices perhaps, are those of the young boys who were selected to become members of the newly organized a cappella choir sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. At the top of the page is seen George Fontana who possesses an unusually sweet voice and will be heard in many solo parts during the months ahead when the choir is fully organized. Others selected for their excellent voices, are, from left to right: Parker Humble, Benny Andrews, Ronnie Durden, Jackie Hicks, Tommy Minniear, Frank Mobley and Carl Wright.

Hilda David, lovely five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor David, didn't wait until Easter to enjoy the companionship of rabbits. She has a yard full of beautiful white rabbits and spends every free moment playing with them. The one she holds in her lap is her favorite. Today, when the majority of children must be content with stories of rabbits, Hilda will be surrounded with her pets and will speak to them by name. They know her voice and come scampering whenever she calls.

Miss Moore Is March Bride

First Baptist Church In West Monroe Is The Scene Of Fashionable Wedding

Guests attending the wedding of Miss Elbertine Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert H. Moore of West Monroe, and Mr. John Cockrell of Birmingham, Ala., walked down candlelit aisles at the First Baptist Church, West Monroe, at five-thirty o'clock in the afternoon on March 21. The pews reserved for intimate friends and members of the two families were marked with immense bows of white satin ribbon. Dr. A. E. Autrey performed the impressive ceremony.

Cathedral tapers, myriads of them, were silhouetted against a background of southern smilax. The altar was flanked with tall pedestal urns filled with the white stock and white gladioli.

While the guests were being seated by the groomsmen, Messrs. Jack Thatcher, Wilkins Rickerson, Ragan DeFreese, Donald Logan, L. Oxford and Marvin Cook, the organist, Mrs. Florence Allbritton, rendered a brilliant concert. The soloist, Miss Billie Durbin, sang "I Love Thee" and was accompanied by Miss Jane Wallace, organist.

Mrs. Thais Norris Natcheway, aunt of the bride, was the matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Misses Beverly Ann Thatcher, Ouida Welch, Jean Copeland, Doris Brown, Billie Durbin and Jane Wallace. All wore beautiful gowns of satinback crepe, in alternating shades of pink and blue. The skirts were billowy with bustle backs, and the bodices were off-the-shoulder effect. Each wore a string of pearls. Their bouquets were off blue carnations and pink sweet peas.

The little flower girls, Kay Norris, Jerry Dickerson, Beverly Sue Norris and Margie Norris, wore pink and blue net dresses and carried old-fashioned nosegays of mixed flowers. All the attendants wore headpieces of roses.

Mr. Robert Cockrell served his brother in the capacity of best man.

Mrs. Moore, the bride's mother, walked down the aisle in a navy blue crepe model with small blue flower hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore the traditional wedding gown of white satin. It was fashioned with a tight-fitting basque and deep yoke of marquisette. A bertha of self material was studded with seed pearls. The skirt, long and full, ended in a court with a Juliet cap, fringed with valley lilies.

The bride carried a beautiful arm bouquet of white snapdragon, stephanotis and gardenias, tied with long lengths of white ribbon.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Durbin, uncle and aunt of the bride. Pink camellias, pink sweet peas and baby breath were used in attractive manner in the reception suite.

The table in the dining room was overlaid with handsome drawnwork over pink satin. The centerpiece of pink carnations was flanked with tall pink tapers.

At one end of the table was placed the three-tiered wedding cake, embossed in pink and white and surmounted with a bride and groom figurine, encircled with lilies of the valley.

Pink carnations in crystal bowls were noted elsewhere in the dining room.

The handsome gifts were displayed in a room set aside for that purpose and were viewed by the guests at this time.

Mrs. Cockrell changed her wedding gown for a grey gabardine suit with which she wore grey shoes and hat.

After their honeymoon trip they will return to Tuscaloosa, Ala., where Mr. Cockrell is studying at the University of Alabama, and where Mrs. Cockrell is associated with the music department as piano instructor.

Mrs. Cockrell was graduated from Ouachita Parish High School, Northeast Junior College and Louisiana State University. She is an accomplished musician and is a former pupil of Mrs. Florence Allbritton. She also studied under Harold Bauer in Chicago and renowned instructors in New York. She is a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, Mu-Sigma Rho and Phi Theta Kappa.

The hostess, Mrs. Kent, assisted by Mrs. Johnnie Bayles and Mrs. Robert Rainwater, served delicious refreshments to the following: Mrs. Clara Gilliland, Mrs. Lizzie Gilliland, Mrs. A. D. Langston, Sr., Mrs. R. M. Drew, Mrs. Fred Henry, Mrs. Byron Henry, Mrs. Albert Strozier, Mrs. McQuiller, Mrs. P. M. Donald, O. D. Hollingsworth, Mrs. J. W. Bayles, Mrs. L. M. Ward, Mrs. T. Butler and Mrs. Pegget.

CONCERT SEASON WILL END MONDAY NIGHT FOR CIVIC MUSIC ASSOCIATION MEMBERS

Monday night's concert, featuring Winifred Heidt, celebrated contralto, will climax one of the most successful seasons in the history of the Monroe Civic Music association. The concert at 8:15 will take place in the Junior auditorium at Northeast Junior college.

Mention the name of Winifred Heidt to an opera-goer, and he probably thinks of Carmen. The attractive young American contralto has sung the title role in Bizet's opera more than one hundred times during the last four years. She reached her centennial on the opening night of the 1946 Season at the Hollywood Bowl, in a performance produced by Boris Morros and conducted by Leopold Stokowski. Then she crossed the border, and duplicated her success at the Opera Nacional in Mexico City. For the equal of Miss Heidt's recreation of Carmen, the Mexican critics had to go back to the days of Emma Calve, Geralding Farrar, and Mary Garden. "Her performance will pass into history side by side with those of the unforgettable divas of yesterday," was the way one of them expressed his enthusiasm.

Grand opera may be Winifred Heidt's first love, but she is equally well known, equally popular, in the concert hall and over the airwaves. Nearly every state in the United States, nearly every providence in Canada has heard her in recital. She has been the featured soloist with such outstanding orchestras as the New York Philharmonic Symphony Society. Radio programs ranging all the way from General Motors to International Harvester have presented her as a guest star. In addition, she has found time to entertain thousands of soldiers and sailors, at home and overseas.

The young lady behind this impressive record is an outstanding member of the musical generation both American-born and American trained. She was born and brought up in Detroit. She inherited her musical gifts from her mother, who composed a number of short operattas for her daughter's training as a child. She graduated to the choir in the church she attended, and then to a solo part in a performance of Debussy's Demoiselle Elue, presented by the Detroit Symphony under Fritz Reiner. That performance launched the contralto on the professional career she now pursues.

Asked to share the secret of her success, Winifred Heidt laughs and says, "There is no secret other than work. Good hard work, which for me, the love of music turns into play."

Vernon J. Sellers, J. C. Penney Company manager, and Mrs. Sellers, entertained the store personnel, their wives or husbands, Thursday night with a delightful four-course dinner of southern fried chicken at their home in the McGuire Addition.

The table was covered with an imported cutwork linen cloth with a large basket of white iris and flowering peach blossoms as a center piece which was bordered by colorful nests of Easter eggs.

After dinner was served the guests enjoyed games of bridge and rummy.

Mrs. Sellers was assisted in serving by Mrs. Fred Beckett.

Purely Personal

When Milenko Blanc returns to France, his native land, and Edgar Appleby returns to his home in New York following a week's visit in the home of Hillyer Speed Lamkin, their classmate at Harvard University, they will carry with them memories of the true type of southern hospitality famed in story and song. They will be able to say, "yes, it's true what they say about Dixie." One night in particular will linger in memory as on this occasion they heard, for the first time, Negro spirituals sung as only the Louisiana-born Negro is capable of. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rogers, the host and hostess, presented a group of colored singers who delighted, not only the visitors but every guest present. Even the true southerner never tires of spirituals as they reflect the emotions of situations in the every-day life of the average Negro. When emotions become intense he finds an outlet in the singing of spirituals. Often he makes up words; perhaps he thinks a tune. He begins to sing. Each singer brings to the song something out of his own experience. Spirituals are not prestige music or glamour music . . . they deal with the inexorable cycle of birth, love and death and often tell of courtship and marriage.

Mrs. Blanche Oliver whose Negro stories have delighted such celebrities as the late Irvin Cobb during his visit to Monroe, graciously responded to the urgent request and in her inimitable manner told several of her favorite stories, thus rounding out an evening of rare entertainment in Mr. and Mrs. Rogers' hospitable home.

Perhaps there is no spot more beautiful in the world at this moment than Mrs. Johnnie Smith Elbert's garden where azaleas and native iris are blooming in riotous profusion against a background of white flowering peach trees and red bud. The glorious symphony of color is attracting hundreds of motorists who drive by daily to feast their eyes on the beauty offered free. All of which reminds one that all the best things of life are free and placed here for our enjoyment. If you want a taste of spring's perfect fulfillment drive by Mrs. Elbert's gardens today.

Mrs. Maud Mayo's painting "Homeless," is exhibited in Baton Rouge during the show sponsored by the Louisiana chapter of the American Artists Professional League. More than 50 prominent Louisiana artists are represented. A reception in honor of the artists was given at the Recreation Center where azaleas, beautiful beyond compare, created an idyllic setting. The exhibit will remain on the walls at the Recreation Center in Baton Rouge through April 15.

One of the most popular members of Monroe's younger set is home from college and wearing a gorgeous diamond on the right finger of her left hand. She is evidently engaged but the news hasn't as yet been made public. However, a diamond of such rare beauty, sparkling on her finger, tells louder than words of the approaching wedding.

The Monroe Lyric Group is happy to afford a real treat for the public —(without charge)—in presenting Mrs. Emma Wilson Emery, of Shreveport, poet laureate of Louisiana.

Mrs. Emery is the author of "Lovely Louisiana" and several volumes of poetry. This gifted writer of songs and poems will give a sketch of her work on Saturday afternoon, April 12, at 3:00 o'clock in the Mirror Room of Hotel Frances.

She is the newly-elected president of the American League of American Penwomen, member of the National Society of Acts and Letters and other organization of writers.

She has given reviews of her arts in universities, colleges, clubs and churches and has done radio work for CBS and NBC. At one time she wrote the programs for the Wrigley sponsored "Poetic Melodies" on CBS in Chicago.

Besides giving a personal interpretation of her poems, she will delight her audience by relating incidents that inspired many of them.

Mrs. Emery's English, Irish and American-Indian ancestry is beautifully blended and is expressed in her well-modulated voice, her keen sense of humor and her fondness for people of all types.

Local Garden Club members returned home last week from the thirteenth annual convention in Lake Charles aglow with satisfaction. The Welcome Garden Club of this city tied for first place in the state award for publicity. Mrs. D. L. Nicol, member of the Welcome Garden Club was also given favorable recognition for her paper on "My Herb Garden." Mrs. J. J. Potts, member of the Monroe Garden Club, was elected third vice-president, and Mrs. J. R. Lewis, member of the Welcome Garden Club was elected state recording secretary. Mrs. J. A. Reid, president of the Welcome Garden Club was also a delegate to the convention. She told us of the interesting plans outlined at the convention for state-wide beautification by the Louisiana Garden Club Federation. The highway between Natchez, Miss., and New Orleans has been selected for the beautification program.

Mrs. Samuel Levy, of Natchitoches, La., president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs is urging every club in the state to join in keeping Louisiana beautiful. She urges club women to see that trash isn't dumped on side streets on the edge of town. "This gives visitors," she says, "a very bad impression of your city. Ask your city fathers to see that this is stopped and the debris moved away." Mrs. Levy suggests that club women draw up a resolution against such practices.

Mrs. Levy is looking forward to the Foreign and Territorial Clubs' luncheon in New York City June 25 and is quite anxious for Louisiana to make a fine showing. Reservations for this luncheon must be made in advance.

A southern girl, Miss Gene Flournoy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Flournoy of this city, has been making her home in the east for several years and each year looks forward to the winter sports in Vermont. A few weeks ago when the snow was deep in the mountains, Miss Flournoy packed her skiing togs and with a party of friends spent several never-to-be-forgotten days at Long Trail Lodge, a winter resort perched high on the mountain side. They boarded the snow train at Rutland, Vermont. Miss Flournoy tells in dramatic manner of her experiences skiing down the mountain side at terrific speed, and gathering momentum every inch of the way. She also tells of the marvelous food prepared at the lodge for the skiers who, as a rule, are as hungry as the proverbial bear.

Miss Gwen Walker, student at Ward-Belmont, accompanied by her suite mate, Miss Nancy Clemmer of Amarilla, Texas, will arrive home Monday morning for her Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Walker. They spent the weekend in Memphis, Tenn., where they were delightfully entertained by Miss Walker's grandmother. Monday afternoon Mrs. Walker will introduce Miss Clemmer to members of the younger set at the Lotus club during the tea hour, 5 to 7.

A well-balanced display of gardens, ranging from the stately beauty of a formal plot to the planned variety of a natural garden, will be shown to tourists on the annual Shreveport garden tour April 12 and 13.

The Shreveport Beautification foundation, sponsor of the annual tour of the city's loveliest private gardens, has also included in the spring showing gardens that were landscaped by the home owner, and those that are a joint product of owner and professional landscaper. Flower lovers of this city are invited to make this tour.

Mrs. C. L. Gewin will keep open house this afternoon between the hours of 3 and 5 at her suburban home complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Jordon who have just returned from their honeymoon and are Easter guests in the Gewin home. Other guests in the Gewin home at this time are Mr. and Mrs. James Evans and daughter, Marilyn, of Ruston. Friends are invited to call at the Gewin home this afternoon through this medium.

Miss Frances Ritter, student at St. Vincent's, Shreveport, is spending her Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ritter. She has as her house guest, a classmate, Miss Barbara Dean Arnold of Shreveport.

Miss Gail Stewart, student at L. S. U. is enjoying her spring vacation with her mother, Mrs. Mattie Stewart in the home of her grandmother, Mrs. J. D. McGee.

Miss Pettit Is The Bride Of Charles Jordon

Claiming the interest of many friends and relatives is the wedding of Miss Minnie Elizabeth Pettit, daughter of Mrs. D. R. Pettit and the late Mr. Pettit, and Charles Jordan, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jordan. The double ring ceremony was performed in the First Baptist church in West Monroe, Saturday, March 29th at 8:30 p. m., Rev. Jerry Autrey officiating.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Ethel Mae Voss, wearing a rose model with a corsage of rose azaleas rendered a nuptial organ concert and played the traditional wedding march.

Mrs. Jack Beasley, matron of honor, wore a navy blue dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Horace Thrasher served the groom as best man.

The bride given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Felton Hammett, was very lovely in a mist blue two-piece model with a pink hat and gloves with black shoes and bag. Her corsage was of white orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and attended Northeast Junior College.

The groom is also a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School. He served three years in the First Division of the U. S. marine corps, having served in the Pacific and European theaters and was wounded twice in action.

Mr. and Mrs. Jordan, after a honeymoon in New Orleans, will be at home to friends on North Fifth street in West Monroe.

MRS. CALHOUN TALKS ON A SUBJECT OF GREAT INTEREST AT MEETING OF BOOK CLUB

"Congenial Living with all races is an integral part of democracy," declared Mrs. J. D. Calhoun who addressed members of the Welcome Branch of the Twentieth Century Book Club when they met in the flower adorned reception suite at the Y. W. C. A.

The topic of Mrs. Calhoun's paper introduced one of the outstanding programs of the year. Mrs. Calhoun said that members must be cognizant of the significance of the worlds repeated at each club meeting when the Pledge of the Flag is the opening feature of the club ritual. These words, which include "with liberty and justice for all," form the basis of democracy, and are words to live by. Mrs. Calhoun also quoted phrases from the club collect, which is a prayer, as a pattern for living, when dealing with the vital subject of race relationship, and real brotherhood. Mrs. Calhoun said in part:

"This subject is probably our largest basic problem. The war brought us the sharp realization that we live in a small world. We live closely whether we want to or not, and we must learn to accept each other through understanding. We fought to preserve the rights of all peoples. Yet, we daily, here in America, are guilty of perhaps minor atrocities against minority groups. Unless we put our own house in order we can expect serious trouble. The United States cannot safely maintain their present position of leadership unless we learn to live happily with all people, and especially those within our own country. We are being watched to see if our leadership in world affairs will prove good and just. For these reasons we must note the ways in which we can achieve understanding. For one thing, we can study the history of a race, and its pattern of culture and living. In this process of reading, studying, and thinking, we can learn the whys of other peoples behavior, and thereby grow in tolerance. If we delve far enough we will find how largely each race has contributed to our present day civilization. At one period of history or another, each race has been in the lead in its contributions."

Mrs. Calhoun continued, "We do not come by our feelings regarding race, honestly. We take on our family's or community's feelings. Children are not born prejudiced and and they are not aware of differences until the ideas are brought to [illegible] the form of attitudes, words, or acts."

Mrs. Calhoun gave unusual interest to the subject by relating personal experiences relating to the topic of her paper which she experienced when she was a social worker with the Children's Aid Society in New York City, a few years ago. She also gave an interesting account of forums she attended in New York, when the topic pertained to race prejudices. At that time she listened to the views of prominent professional people of all races and walks of life.

Mrs. Henson Coon reviewed Douglas Lurton's book, "Making The Most of Your Life." This book is unusual and a real adventure in ways and means of developing creative imagination, and presents the fundamental principles on which achievement is based, in any walk of life. It answers the questions, so often heard or puzzled over in the mind, "What does he have that I haven't?" "Why didn't someone tell me these things?" Mrs. Coon said in part: "There is no magic formula involved in making a greater success of your life. Anyone born with average brain power and who practices a modest amount of so-called common sense can improve his trade, business or professional status. There is scientific proof that your personality qualities are twice as important as your basic technical skills in getting and holding your job. These same personality traits are more important than basic skills in winning advancement. You are stuck with the brains you were born with.

Your mental capacity was established by your ancestors. What you can do is make the most of that innate mental capacity. Your personality qualities are of your own making. You acquired them and can change them at will. The ten basic qualifications are: Cooperation, ambition, initiative, originality, perserverance, reliability, enthusiasm, persuasion, consideration, and character. The world has rich rewards for the man who uses what he has to do just a bit better than the average and do that steadily. The plain garden variety of persistence contains in it the very essence of genius. Perhaps the most valuable result of all education is the ability to make yourself do the thing you have to do, when it has to be done, whether you like it or not."

Mrs. Coon concluded, "We are judged daily by the qualities we possess or lack, by the little things we do or fail to do. A code to live by requires steadfast faith in self, in others, in the future, in all good things. Those who serve most, contribute most and profit most in the richness of their living. Take the tools at hand and carve your own best life."

During the business session presided over by the president, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, letters were read by Mrs. H. V. Collins, acting Corresponding Secretary, from Senators Overton and Ellender expressing appreciation of the club's recommendation and approval concerning Public Library Demonstration bills now pending. Members voted to respond to the annual appeal in behalf of Cancer Control as is their custom. Contributions will be donated both as a club and also one hundred per cent individual membership. A committee was appointed to suggest possible changes in the club constitution and by-laws, if same would prove more practical. They are as follows: Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. Zell Smith, Mrs. H. V. Collins. The president, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, gave generous recognition to Mrs. E. Everett Lawson, whose poem "Old Orchards" was purchased by Ted Malone for April issue of Radio Mirror Magazine, and read by him on one of his regular morning broadcasts over ABC network. He also read this poem on the CBS Family Hour program an introduction to opera star Rise Stevens' vocal rendition of "Trees". Mrs. J. Norman Coon read the poem, at Mrs. Gunter's request, in beautifully inflected voice.

During the social period refreshments were served to: Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. M. R. Haushier, Mrs. J. G. Hicks, Mrs. E. Everett Lawson, Mrs. W. D. McGee, Jr., Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Mrs. T. H. Scott, Mrs. Zell Smith, Mrs. A. J. Speer, Mrs. Richard Whitehurst, and Mrs. E. J. Whitman. Mrs. J. C. Conner was a guest.

LAST LITTLE THEATRE PLAY OF THE SEASON WILL TAKE PLACE AT AN EARLY DATE

Following the highly successful production of "Uncle Harry" last week, the Little Theatre will hold readings for the casting of its fifth and last play of the season, "You Can't Take It With You" next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30 at the Little Theatre Workshop in Neville High. Newcomers will find the workshop by approaching Neville from the back, when they will see a lighted room in the left arm of the building.

The Little Theatre is always anxious to find new people for its casts, and in this case has a play with a particularly large and diversified cast which ranges all the way from ballet dancers and zylophone players to a middle-aged mother who writes plays and a father who manufactures fire-crackers in the basement. Kay Crandall, director, is most anxious to have all those people who have always wanted to appear behind the footlights, but who have waited for someone else to find them, to come up to Neville on one of the three nights scheduled and help augment the active groups of the theatre.

Those interested in Little Theatre work from the backstage angle are as necessary as the actors; any aspiring stagehands or prop or sound people should also join the group on next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, when they will hear the play read and learn something of plans for the next production.

MANY HELPFUL HINTS CONTAINED IN MRS. D. L. NICOL'S TALK TO WELCOME GARDEN CLUB MEMBERS

Mrs. D. L. Nicol's talk on "Marigolds and Calendulas" at the last meeting of the Welcome Garden club was not only interesting but constructive. She said in part:

"The marigolds and calendulas are among our best loved annuals. They are very useful as a border plant as the flowers completely cover the plants at full bloom giving an extremely showy effect.

"They are indispensable in any cutting garden as their yellow to orange colored blossoms make very attractive cutting material for low and medium height arrangements and give rich-colored personality to them.

"The history of the marigold is an interesting one.

Early Roman gardeners made no distinction between useful and ornamental planting. Plutarch reports that lordly roses and choice violets were set side by side with humble looks. Not until the time of the younger Pliny, 62-116 AD was any separation noticed.

Coeumella, in his work on Roman agriculture suggests a wall or hedge should surround every garden and he divides its plants into three groups —those cultivated for ornament, those fruits and vegetables useful for food, and the herbs, for seasoning and medicine.

"Among the flowers he would have Romans enjoy, and which we still raise, were the marigolds.

"In the medieval days it was considered part of the essential education of a lady that she be schooled in the use of herbs and the making of simples for the care of their households. As physicians weren't handy in those days, the women had to patch up their knights who were constantly getting banged up in jousts or coming home sick from the Crusades.

"It is easy to see how a "herbary" grew into a necessary feature of medieval castle grounds. The plants the housewife grew were not merely pot herbs used for flavoring sauces and meats, they also included many of the flowers which were necessary ingredients in the compounding of medicines and distillation of flower waters. Among those were the marigolds.

"The end of medieval times saw a growing appreciation of decorative plants. Most of these, however, were not the highly hybridized kinds we grow, but rather wildlings brought in from meadow and hillside. As flowers increased in popularity interest in herbs declined, or, rather, herbs were relegated to the realm of science and made subjects for botanical gardens.

"This interest in flowers brought about another change—wherens once they were grown together with vegetables and herbs, the dawning of the Renaissance saw the two separated since it was no longer felt good taste to force the company of the lowly onion on the regal rose.

"The making of nosegays and garlands grew to be one of the pleasant duties of the housewife. Here she collected her seed and even as you and I, exchanged it with neighbors.

"It was during the Renaissance in 1674 when the English took over New Amsterdam that agriculture in the New World improved. However, the Dutch influence on agriculture was very great. Almost from the beginning could New Amsterdam boast its gardens made from the bulbs and seeds settlers had brought with them.

"An early visitor, Adriaan Van der Donk, mentions in his book "Voyages" marigolds among other flowers, of which there were none before in this country.

"The Pot Marigol.. or Calendula is a native of France and the more southern parts of Europe.

"They grow easily from seed. They sow themselves freely and come up year after year. Flowers range in color from pale yellow to deep orange. The fully double regularly formed flower is the most highly praised.

"The finest of African marigolds is the large flowered variety known as Guinea Gold. It is an All American selection, and is an early blooming variety.

"Another all America selection—Crown of Gold—is the first known marigold with odorless foilage.

"Another odorless African type is—Golden Glow.

"Yellow Supreme is a marigold practically free from the objectionable odor.

"In 1946 Calendula Chrysanta won the Gold Medal for all American selection.

"This year a new French marigold "Naughty Marietta" received honorable mention—fourth in the selection of the four most outstanding flowers to be introduced in 1947 announced by the all America selection committee. The flowers are golden yellow and from two to two and one-half inches across. They are mahogany red at the petal base.

"Calendula should be sown in the fall as they require an especially early start in the spring for best results.

"The marigolds are classed as tender annuals and should be sown in spring after the last danger of frost has gone."

TRAVELOGUE ON BRAZIL IS THE HIGHLIGHT OF CURRENT LITERATURE CLUB MEETING

An interesting travelogue on Brazil was given by Mrs. Earl Stoval at the meeting of the Current Literature Club in the home of Mrs. L. A. West. The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. W. A. Cotton, president.

Mrs. R. O. Ware, guest speaker, gave a delightful review on, "In a Dark Garden," by Frank G. Slaughter. It is the story of Julian Chrisholm, who having completed his medical studies in Europe finds himself in Glasgow, penniless, but determined to return home and offer his skill as a surgeon to the cause of the Confederacy.

Through a cynical, happy-go-lucky gambler he meets lovely Jane Anderson, widow of a Confederate army officer, who needs a husband badly if she is to return to Georgia to fight for her estates. She offers Julian the price of his passage if he will marry her, and he accepts, hoping that marriage will drive away his constantly recurring thoughts of beautiful, shameless Lucy Sprague who had rejected him three years before for an untrustworthy but wealthy Yankee senator.

Once in the Confederacy, Julian plunges into the hazardous work of an army field surgeon as he tries to forget both Lucy and Jane, in whom his interest has deepened. On the bloody battlefields of Vicksburg and Chickamauga he performs delicate under-fire operations, oblivious of his personal safety and concerned only with the lives of the wounded under his knife. There are detailed and accurate descriptions of Julian at work, from the scene at the primitive base hospital, where he saves an adolescent boy with a dangerous head injury to the night in a sumptuous mansion where he makes medical history when he removes an appendix as a cure for typhlitis.

As we follow Julian through rapidly shifting scenes of action, Jane and Lucy again cross his path and disturb his loyalties. How he resolves his personal conflict and makes his final choice between love and duty is the climax of this dramatic story of a doctor in the Civil War.

Delicious refreshments were served to the following members and guests: Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. G. B. Demmary, Mrs. Dan Dennett, Mrs. J. L. Dennis, Mrs. G. M. Heidenreich, Mrs. L. M. Frey, Mrs. Walter Knapp, Mrs. H. C. Menuel, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Jr., Mrs. J. W. Reeves, Mrs. R. F. Seiler, Mrs. Earl Stovall, Mrs. W. O. Webb, Mrs. L. A. West, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Mrs. J. V. Whitledge; Mrs. R. O. Ware, guest.

For vitamin C content, combine shredded cabbage in salad with grated turnip and generous slices of green pepper.

Two beautiful piano numbers were rendered by Miss Geneva Rountree.

Claude W. Davis, of the Louisiana extension service, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Madison Parish Home Demonstration Council held at the Madison parish courthouse on Wednesday. He gave an interesting talk on "The Native Iris of Louisiana," illustrating it with colored slides. Mrs. M. A. Verhagen presided over the business session when Mrs. M. D. Freeman was elected secretary-treasurer to succeed Mrs. Edgar Brown, who resigned. Committees were appointed for the new yearbook and for 4-H achievement day to be held on May 14. Members of the demonstration clubs will visit representative homes of the nine home demonstration clubs in all sections of Madison parish.

A meeting of the Madison Parish League of Women Voters was held at the Madison Parish Courthouse on April 2 with Mrs. C. E. Hester presiding and Miss Anna M. Cannaday serving as secretary. Mrs. W. H. Erickson, treasurer, presented the first budget which had been prepared under the direction of Miss Bertha Pabst, national financial secretary, on her recent visit to the local league. Mrs. A. F. Graves, first vice-president and study chairman, introduced recommendations for national, state and local studies. Mrs. W. P. Yerger gave excerpts from the constitution of the state of Louisiana, preliminary to the survey of the local program, "Know Your Parish." Mrs. Hester spoke on the general subject, "Louisiana Constitution and Problems Involved in Revision." Mrs. W. F. Patton spoke on "Reciprocal Trade Agreement."

SINGING CONVENTION

RED CROSS IS $12,000 SHORT

Goal Of $40,000 Not Yet Reached; Final Reports Needed

All volunteer workers who have been soliciting contributions for the Ouachita Parish chapter of the American Red Cross during the 1947 Fund Campaign are requested to make reports of their collections this week at campaign headquarters in the United Gas Corporation building. Workers in the business district of Monroe are urged to report as early as possible. The announcement was made by George M. Snelling, Jr., general chairman of the campaign. This information is necessary, Snellings said, in order to give a complete account of the drive.

Only $28,000 of their $40,000 budgeted for the current drive had been reported Saturday.

The March drive of the American Red Cross called for a quota of $60,000,000. Although the war is over, the Red Cross has a tremendous load of responsibility to carry, according to information received from national headquarters. It must provide welfare and recreational facilities for two million men still in the armed services; it must coordinate the work of thousands of volunteers who are trying to relieve the loneliness of hospitalized veterans; it has work to do for ablebodied veterans and their families; it must carry on its traditional relief activities for victims of disaster and its established health and welfare services.

The Red Cross needs a great deal of support in this campaign, declared Dick Troy, chairman of the local chapter. Many people who gave liberally during the war are not realizing the great need to respond now.

The National Red Cross has done much for the people of Ouachita Parish, Troy explained. In the 20 years, 1927-1947, the organization spent $168,710 in direct disaster relief in Ouachita Parish. During these same 20 years the local parish contributed to the National Red Cross the total sum of $129,026.

FOR STRONG U. S.

MAJ. J. A. MURPHY

STRONG AMERICA PEACEFUL ONE

This Is Theme For Army Day Programs Throughout Nation

"A strong America is a peaceful America" will be the theme for the observance of Army Day, April 7, states Major Joseph A. Murphy, Infantry PMS. and T. officer at N. J. C.

This theme also will underscore all activities during Army Week, April 6 to 12, which will be held for the first time this year.

The local program will be a part of the country-wide program aimed at putting before the American people the importance of an efficient, well-trained army to national security and world peace.

Army Day and Army Week will stress not only the regular army, but also the reserve components, the national guard, organized reserve corps and reserved officers training corps.

It is explained that local and national programs will stress the need for a well-trained army of volunteers adequate in size to safeguard the national defense and meet commitments abroad. American soldiers living and dead will be honored by the programs.

Throughout the week ground forces and air forces will stage demonstrations and exhibits.

'GOD OF CREATION' TO BE PRESENTED

Vivid full-color scenes from astronomy and natural science are featured in "The God of Creation," sound motion picture to be shown at the Central Baptist Church, 3400 Lee Ave, on Easter Sunday, today, at 7:30 p. m. The evening service will be held in the auditorium of the Lida Benton School.

Produced in Moody Institute of Science, west coast department of Moody Bible Institute, by Irwin A. Moon, Sc. D., "The God of Creation" is the second in a series of evangelistic films. The first film by Dr. Moon, "They Live Forever," had a large showing in all parts of the country.

In the opening section of "The God of Creation" the audience takes a trip to the stars by means of solar photographs taken through the giant 100-inch telescope of Mr. Wilson Observatory in southern California, and views complex gyrations of our own solar system.

Lapse-time photography is utilized to demonstarte the beauties of natural science. The illusion of flower buds developing into full-blown blossoms in a few seconds is created through this time-compressing photo technique. The metamorphosis of a caterpillar through the various stages from worm to butterfly, and pollination of flowers are seen on the screen in full coior.

IN NEW FIELD

LLOYD F. CHURCH

Lloyd F. Church, night clerk at Hotel Frances both before and after his service in World War 2, resigned from that position Friday and tomorrow morning will become an agent for the American National Life Insurance company with offices in the Bernhardt building.

Most of Mr. Church's 39 months in the army were spent in Burmuda and he held the rank of staff sergeant when he was discharged and returned to his home here on May 1, 1946. He is a native of Sibley, Webster parish, where he was born May 9, 1915, and was 11 years old when he came to Monroe with his parents. His father, E. L. Church, retired two years ago as ticket agent for the Illinois Central railroad.

Manager E. C. Gibson of the Frances said yesterday O. A. Luhm, now of the Vicksburg hotel, Vicksburg, Miss., who was night clerk here for 2 years prior to last May, will return to the position on April 15.

PERFECT SHIPPING PLANNED IN APRIL

Announcement has been made by E. Gordon Wright, of Wright and Company, Inc., Monroe, chairman, that the eleventh "Perfect Shipping" campaign will be conducted during the month of April. He states that with railroad freight loss and damage for the nation reaching an estimated 125 million-dollar figure during 1946, a nation-wide "Perfect Shipping" campaign will be conducted during the month of April as a means of activating the shipping and receiving public, as well as railroad employes, responsible for the safe delivery of shipments into a cooperative group to stop the needless waste of materials and precious man hours.

Poor packing, improper marking and careless handling is responsible for the enormous waste of effort and the campaign will have an objective of improving, especially the packaging technique in the preparation of shipments, not only for the present but for the future. Better containers and packaging materials are available now and should improve shipping conditions during the remainder of the year.

With a membership of more than 80,000 shippers and receivers the 13 regional shippers advisory boards, with the southwest board headquarters at 612 Southwestern Life Building, Dallas, Tex., will take an active part in the campaign. Others who will participate include the Association of American Railroads, the Railway Express Agency and other transportation agencies.

SECOND ASSISTANT ADDED AT CHURCH

Father Terry Lennon, of Longford, Ireland, has just arrived in Monroe and assumed the duties of an assistant priest at St. Matthew's Church. He has been in this country only two weeks, but is pleased with his new surroundings and is already making many friends.

The other assistant priest is Father Lawrence Bonin.

The membership of this church is so large that Msgr. J. C. Marsh, pastor, requires two assistants to care for the needs of his parishioners.

PAULETTE SAYS SHE'S BIG GIRL

Plans Now To Live For Present, Not For Future Or Past

By Ralph Dighton

HOLLYWOOD, April 5.—(AP)—Paulette Goddard is a creature of the moment—at the moment.

A few years ago nothing mattered but her future. Every waking hour was consumed by her ambition.

A few years from now, she may find her past the more intriguing.

But today, nothing matters—she says—but today.

At 36, with 22 pictures behind her, Paulette is "just suddenly beginning to realize something."

"I'm a big girl now," Paulette said on the eve of her current trip abroad, "From here on, nobody makes me do anything."

For more years than she cares to remember, Paulette was a protege of Perfectionist Charlie Chaplin. Chaplin was more than a mentor; he was her husband.

Knowing this, you can understand Paulette's earnestness when she says, "I'm starting out on a little new era for myself."

The man who has opened the door to the "new era" is her third husband, thrice-wed Burgess Meredith, whom she married in 1944. Three years her senior, Burgess has a calmer temperament. His reputation as an actor was established years ago, so ambition needn't drive him so hard. He has time for other things than his career.

In the years since they were married Paulette has changed from an elfin creature who attracted great personages, into a personage herself. Although possessing no great beauty, she exerts a powerful and peculiar fascination over men. Women her own age seldom interest her. She is almost—but not quite—the type described in French (which she is learning) as the "femme fatale."

The hand of Burgess Meredith is evident in much of Paulette's new philosophy.

"I'm going to do a stage play in Ireland this summer," she says. "It will improve my life if not my acting." (The play was written for her and Meredith by his close friend, John Steinback).

"I will never do anything that bores me again," she declares, and adds by way of proof, "I'm on suspension now for six months."

"The one thing I want to do for the rest of my life is just to have fun," Paulette says. "If it isn't fun, why bother with it? I have no more time to spend being bored. The pictures I've been offered here have no characterization. I just walk in and out of doors—I can't make that interesting. So I'm going to do a movie in England for Alexander Korda." (The movie will be adapted from Oscar Wilde's "An Ideal Husband.")

Another bit of Meredith influence may be seen in her current passion for collecting ancient Aztec and Latin American Indian museum pieces.

"I'm catching a lot of culture these days," says Paulette. And when you're catching a lot of culture in a hurry, Mexican artifacts are handy to have around. You don't have to be an expert. No one expects an old Indian necklace to be good—all it has to be is old.

Paulette also is collecting modern paintings—by Renoir, Ret, Picasso, Modgliani, and others, and neither do modern paintings have to be good—all they have to be is modern.

There's a funny story connected with one of Paulette's paintings.

She installed Constance Collier, a once-famous stage actress who now tutors Hollywood stars, as supervisor of Meredith's Nyack farm when Meredith went to work for Uncle Sam during the war.

One winter, Miss Collier wired Paulette: "Somebody painting outside of house. What shall I do?" Paulette had paid $400 the previous summer to have the house painted, so she wired back: "Throw him off the place."

The painter was Waldo Pierce, whom Meredith had commissioned to do a landscape of the farm house as a surprise Christmas gift for Paulette. Pierce must have had a sense of humor. The completed landscape now hangs in the library-bar of the Goddard-Meredith menage.

Miss Collier has known Paulette intimately for 12 years. They were introduced by Chaplin, who had hired her to coach Paulette.

"I still work with her," says Miss Collier, "but she's past coaching now. I merely suggest and advise." Miss Collier also has "advised" Betty Hutton, Gene Tierney, Linda Darnell, Anabella, Norma Shearer and Mary Pickford.

Professionally, she believes Paulette "hasn't begun to develop."

Personally, she finds Paulette "very illogical and irresponsible, but behind all that is a sound sense of what she wants in life."

And what does Paulette herself—this strange combination of sex, charm, ambition and brains—really want?

"I don't want a thing out of life," says Paulette, "but the moment."

If potatoes are left over, keep them covered in a cold place until they are used.

GIRL SCOUTING GIVEN APPROVAL

Fifth Region Director Well Pleased With Progress Here

"Commendation for a big job well done during 1946," was the response made by Miss Lenore Amerman, director of the Fifth region, National Girl Scout organization, after she had reviewed the annual report of the Ouachita Parish Girl Scout Council.

In a letter to Mrs. P. G. Rowe, Girl Scout commissioner of this parish, Miss Amerman said, "Your organization committee appears to be a very hard working group, indeed. They increased your girl membership by 35 per cent, or 153 members. This is one of the largest increases in the region." She also commended this group on providing a program on all three age levels, which "represents another step forward."

Referring to the work of the public relations committee, the Fifth region director said that there was every evidence that the committee was closely related to organization. "Through its interpretation of Girl Scout goals and accomplishments, it attracts new volunteer personnel, she explained.

Emphasis was placed on the success of the camp committee which offered camping experience last year to 28 per cent of the girls in the organization. The regional director pointed out that the national average is only 10 percent.

Miss Amerman also was impressed with another phase of summer activity in this area. About half the troops met at some time during the summer, a percentage which she considered excellent. In fact, everything the program committee was concerned with seemed to have been a splendid success, she concluded. "We like best the description of coordination between your homemaking consultant's activities and the share-the-food plan. I think your participation in this project was probably the best in the region. The person who wrote the speech about this for a Girl Scout to make at a service club luncheon should be writing for publication."

Securing a better office and secretarial service means a big step forward and one of the very best ways to make good use of professional service, Miss Amerman said.

She emphasized the opportunity of work which a membership committee is given here. In providing members from which all committees are drawn, this particular group is the most far-reaching committee on the council, Miss Amerman declared. This committee must be continually at work grooming persons for special committee jobs, she explained.

3 EXPERTS COMPLETE ATTEMPT BY AMATEURS TO CURB HOTEL BLAZE

Two Crossett, Ark., young men, over-night guests in room 614 at Hotel Monroe, thought they had extinguished a smoldering cigarette-started fire in an overstuffed chair after they had lugged it into the bathroom and doused it with the shower spray at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. But three hours later an electrician at nearby city hall noticed smoke rolling from the high-up hotel window and notified the fire department.

Sending No. 1 truck to stand by for emergency, Chief H. L. Hales, Assistant Chief Harry E. Roberts and Capt. J. C. Brantley dashed to the hotel on foot and burst into the room, awakening one of the occupants who had remained asleep when his companion went to breakfast.

Opening the bathroom door, Chief Hales again turned on the shower and left it gushing until the chair blaze really was put out. Then the three fire officials ripped the upholstery apart to make sure.

The smoke had not entered the hallway and other guess were not alarmed.

COLLEGE SETS VISITATION DAY

Friday May 2 Designated As Time For High School Guests

Seniors from high schools throughout northeast Louisiana will be invited to participate in Senior Visitation day on Friday, May 2, on the Northeast Junior College campus. The event is being sponsored by the health and physical education department. This marks the third year that such a plan has been included in the list of college activities.

A. S. Huffman, head of the health and physical education department, is chairman of the general committee in charge of the day's schedule of features. He called a meeting of Dean Rodney Cline and department heads last week to begin plans for the annual event. Members of the faculty and staff who will comprise committees to plan and put into effect a program of varied interests will be announced at an early date.

Activities for the day will begin at 10 a. m. with a welcome and short program in Brown Hall auditorium tentatively planned.

Features will include entertainment throughout the day, with the highlight probably being the big barbecue at noon. This specialty is being provided through the courtesy of the education committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Last year's barbecue sponsored by this committee, headed by J. S. Drew, met with such hearty response that the organization offered to repeat the feature this spring.

Other events which will probably be included on the calendar for Visitation day are: Tours of the buildings which will have special exhibits in various departments, athletic activities in the gymnasium and outdoor playground, recreational games and broadcasts, and musical and dramatic numbers presented by Northeast Junior College students.

FILM SHOWN TO MONROE GROUP

'This Is Louisiana' Exhibited By Standard Oil Company

Civic and industrial leaders of Monroe and vicinity had their first opportunity to view the film, "This Is Louisiana" in the Cameo room of Hotel Virginia, Friday at 8 p. m. There were about 75 present. The film was produced by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, as public service.

They included H. T. Richardson, mayor of Ruston; Commissioners C. R. Tidwell and W. D. H. Rodriguez; H. G. Bailey Jr., secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; C. C. Murphy, superintendent of Union parish schools; J. C. King, state manager of the Standard Oil Company of New Orleans and S. E. Charlton representing this company in the Monroe area.

Mr. McBride stated that "This Is Louisiana" is available immediately, without charge, to schools, civic, business and social clubs, church and industrial organizations, and that arrangements for these group showings can be made through any Standard Oil Company of N. J. office. J. C. King of New Orleans, Louisiana manager for Esso, said that in addition to the activities of five projection crews in Louisiana handling showings that the film will receive wide distribution throughout the operating area of his company, and that he estimated that over a million people will view the beauties of Louisiana this year.

The picture is concluded with Mardi Gras in New Orleans. The crowded street scenes reflect the true carnival spirit of the masked revelers and shows the elaborate floats and the Rex parade. For the first time a carnival ball has been professionally photographed in color, and the beautiful costumes and spectacular pageantry are scenes of outstanding beauty.

CAMPAIGN OFFICE TO OPEN MONDAY

Town Hall will open offices in its campaign in Hotel Virginia lobby, Monday morning. Already many have sent in the money for season tickets and the indications are that there will be in excess of a hundred memberships for the year 1947-48 in excess of those of the previous year.

The new season is to open Monday, April 14, with an address by former Governor Philip F. LaFollette, of Wisconsin.

GEORGE WUNDER

IS MISS ERMINE TOY —

COME IN, MY DEAR. YOU ARE QUITE BEAUTIFUL TONIGHT.

YOU ARE VERY GALLANT, AND YOUR STAGE SETTING IS FLATTERING. THE CAFE GOSSIP THAT ATTRACTED ME DID NOT SAY HOW CLEVER YOU ARE.

THERE IS MUCH THESE CHATTERING FOOLS DON'T KNOW OF ME... OR MY PLANS.

TELL ME — WHAT HAVE YOU HEARD OF MY ACTIVITIES?

MOST INTRIGUING WHISPERS — THAT YOU PAY WELL FOR ODD BITS OF INFORMATION — THAT YOU MEET SECRETLY WITH NATIVE LEADERS FROM THE BACK COUNTRY — THAT YOU BRIBE MINOR OFFICIALS.

AND WHAT, MY SWEET, HAVE YOU REASONED FROM THESE RUMORS?

THAT YOU ARE INVOLVED IN SOMETHING BIG... SOMETHING WORTH ERMINE TOY'S ATTENTION.

THERE ARE BRAINS BEHIND THAT PRETTY FACE OF YOURS — AS A TEAM, WE SHOULD GO FAR.

YOU ARE IMPETUOUS, MY FRIEND, BUT, I LIKE THE GLITTER OF JEWELS AND THE GLEAM OF GOLD AS BACKGROUND FOR LOVE MAKING — YOU MUST TELL ME MORE OF YOUR PLAN.

I'M A FOOL, BUT I'LL TRUST YOU — THREE CENTURIES AGO, AN ANCESTOR OF MINE APPEARED HERE AND LED SOME OF THE BACK COUNTRY TRIBES IN A REVOLT THAT SWEPT THIS COUNTRY, AND MADE HIM KING... THOSE TRIBES HAVE LEGENDS OF THE RICH LOOT THAT CAME FROM THAT AFFAIR. THEY WILL BE HAPPY TO REPEAT THE VENTURE — THIS TIME, UNDER ME!

YOU'RE MAD! EVEN IF THE TRIBESMEN FOLLOWED YOU, YOU COULD NEVER HOLD POWER FOR LONG OVER THIS ENTIRE COUNTRY.

OF COURSE NOT, BUT I CAN HOLD THE ISOLATED NORTHERN PROVINCES. THEY'RE RATHER DESOLATE PLACES, I UNDERSTAND...

IT'S QUITE FORTUNATE THAT THEY CONTAIN THE ONLY SIZABLE OIL RESERVES IN THIS PART OF THE WORLD.

Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

TWO BRITISH SERGEANTS AT THE TANGA AIRFIELD SPOTTED AN UNIDENTIFIED AIRCRAFT ON THE RADAR. "CALL THE OLD MAN!" ONE SAID.

EXCITEMENT IN HIS VOICE, THE RADIO OPERATOR CALLED MAJOR BRADFIELD, THE POST COMMANDER, "A PLANE COMING IN, SIR! THE BLIGHTER DOES NOT ANSWER OUR SIGNALS!"

ON THE FIELD, THE MAJOR SAW A BOMBER-TYPE SHIP APPROACHING WITH UNKNOWN INSIGNIA ON ITS WINGS. ALARMED, HE ORDERED THE ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS TO START FIRING.

THE PLANE, COMING IN FOR A LANDING, SUDDENLY PULLED INTO A STEEP CLIMB AS BURSTS OF ACK-ACK BARKED A HOSTILE RECEPTION.

WHEN THE SHIP ZOOMED UPWARD, THE GROUND OBSERVERS SAW A SMALL PARACHUTE DROP, OPEN AND FLOAT EARTHWARD.

A SOLDIER BROUGHT THE 'CHUTE TO MAJOR BRADFIELD. ATTACHED WAS A TUBE CONTAINING A NOTE. THE OFFICER'S JAW DROPPED WITH ASTONISHMENT WHEN HE READ IT.

HIS HAND SHAKING FROM SUPPRESSED EXCITEMENT, THE POST COMMANDER ROARED AN ORDER. "CEASE FIRING! SIGNAL FOR THE SHIP TO LAND!"

THE SMALL GROUP WATCHED AS THE LARGE PLANE WITH THE STRANGE INSIGNIA CIRCLED THE FIELD, SWOOPED LOW TO LAND AND THUNDERED DOWN THE RUNWAY.

BREATHLESSLY THE MAJOR AND HIS MEN WAITED UNTIL THE PLANE'S DOOR SWUNG OPEN. THERE STOOD THE JUNGLE-MAN WHO, WEEKS BEFORE, HAD BEEN GIVEN UP FOR DEAD.

TARZAN AND THE MAJOR GRIPPED HANDS. "WELCOME, GREYSTOKE!" BRADFIELD SAID. "WHAT REPORT?" TARZAN SMILED. "MISSION COMPLETED!" TARZAN REPLIED.

"TARZAN EXPLAINED. "I FOUND MY WIFE, OM-AT IS IN A-LUR, THE WOOTS IS DISBANDED, AND THE SCOURGE IS DEAD!"

"WE FOUND A PLANE IN A CAVE, FORTUNATELY UNDAMAGED, AND THANKS TO HUTTO, MY PILOT FRIEND, WE ARE HERE! AND NOW OUR THOUGHTS TURN TO ONE THING --HOME!"
